REPORT NAVAL BATTLE OFF AFRICA

Allies Clash with Axis Foe in Tunisia

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(BUP)—Radio Beirut reported today that a big Allied convoy, whose tonnage would total six figures, had arrived at Algiers from Britain without loss.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—DNB, German news agency, broadcast from Berlin today that German and Italian forces have started a counter-attack against United States troops in Tunisia.

LONDON, Nov. 16—(CP)—Reuters news agency said today it had recorded a broadcast by the Morocco radio reporting that Hitler had ordered German forces in Tunisia to hold on at any cost.

VICHY (From French Broadcasts), Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Nazi-controlled Vichy radio broadcast today a dispatch datelined La Linea, Spain, reporting that two Allied battleships, two aircraft carriers, four cruisers and nine destroyers sailed from Gibraltar into the Mediterranean this morning. Still in port at Gibraltar, the broadcast said, are 26 merchant ships, five transports and two hospital ships, protected by a battleship and several destroyers.

By EWARD W. BEATTIE

LONDON, Nov. 16. — (BUP) — A powerful Anglo-American force drove into Tunisia today, its advance guards clashing with an estimated 10,000 Axis troops in the Bizerte neighborhood amid reports of a major naval battle off the African shore and indications Adolf Hitler may attempt to "shoot the works" in an effort to block Allied control of Africa and the Mediterranean.

An Allied communique, broadcast over Radio Morocco, reported the Allied force, spearheaded by the British First Army, is pushing eastward as rapidly as possible.

Other reports placed its vanguard already close to the key French air bases around Bizerte which Lt.-Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson said were the initial objectives of his troops.

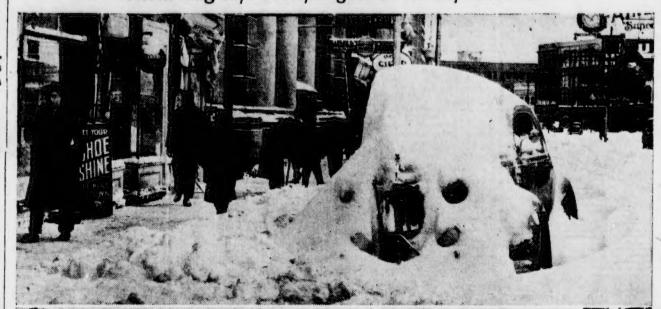
Storm King Lays Paralyzing Hand On City Activities



Residents of this city on Monday were digging themselves out from the worst storm in the history of this city. Traffic was all but suspended, schools were closed and business retarded. In the upper view is shown Jasper avenue Monday morning. Taken from the corner of Jasper and 100A avenue and looking east it shows men clearing snow and stalled vehicles. The lower view is looking west from the Post Office on 101A avenue. Men are seen clearing away the piles of snow.

Shortage of Milk Is Threatened as Roads Are Blocked

All provincial government snowplow equipment available in Southern Alberta was speeding toward Edmonton Monday as the city continued digging itself out of the worst blizzard in the history of Northern Alberta.

The storm, borne in on the wings of a chill north wind, entirely disrupted all business activity.

All street railway traffic was tied up Sunday, and the tie-up continued Monday. Thomas Ferrier, street railway superintendent, said it was hoped to get some of the trams rolling again Monday evening to serve the heavily-populated districts.

Seven street cars were reported off the track Sunday night, while two sweepers nosing their way through waist-high drifts on the trackage were also derailed.

Hon. W. A. Fallow, provincial minister of public works, said that snowplow equipment from Southern Alberta was being rushed north as fast as possible to clear district highways.

Bakeries and dairies warned householders to conserve their supplies of milk and bread as much as possible since there was little likelihood that regular house-to-house deliveries could be made for another day at least.

Dairies reported that it was not expected that milk supplies from country points could reach Edmonton before Wednesday at the earliest due to blocked roads.

Go To Work On Foot

Practically all Edmonton plowed its way to work on foot Monday morning.

Snow, according to the Dominion Meteorological Bureau started falling at 2 a.m. Sunday and up until 10 a.m. Monday, a total of 19 and one half inches had fallen on the level and 36 inches in drifts. Probabilities are more snow.

Automobiles that dared the storm Sunday were stranded in all parts of the city, some even being abandoned in drifts along Jasper avenue. Tow-truck service was able to handle only a small part of the emergency calls from stranded motorists, most of whom had to leave their cars and battle their way home through the drifts.

Taxi service was also practically at a standstill, excepting for short trips in the downtown area.

Deliveries Are Delayed

Bread and milk delivery services also were delayed Monday morning. Every effort was being made, however, to service stores as a partial help to householders. Fortunately, most of the bread and milk delivery services are operated with horses, who have an advantage over cars when it comes to bucking drifts.

Schools were ordered closed all day Monday. Announcement will be made later about Tuesday.

Meteorological services reported that the blizzard which blew in from the north had extended into Central Alberta. Storm warnings to country residents were issued from Edmonton Sunday, but it was feared that some car travellers would be stranded on rural highways as a result of the storm.

It was reported Monday afternoon there appeared little possibility of regular house-to-house deliveries of milk and bread for another day at least.

Bakery and dairy officials warned householders to conserve their supplies as much as possible.

SHORTAGE OF MILK

F. J. Reynolds, manager of the E.C.D., said Monday: "We can't expect any shipment from country points until Tuesday, and householders are advised to use their milk sparingly. There will be no residential delivery Monday, but we are doubling up teams and men and will attempt to make a delivery to retail stores."

Similar reports were received from the Northern Alberta Dairy Pool Ltd., and Woodland Dairy

American, Jap Warships Spar Off Solomons

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16. — (AP)—Japanese and American warships sparred with each other in a battle of manoeuvre today.

The navy reported that a "determined effort" was underway by the Japanese to recapture positions in the Guadalcanal-Tulagi area of the Solomon Islands, but said details would be withheld until the outcome of a running sea battle was decided.

The action at sea was described as "hit and run, hide and seek, touch and go."

VITAL ENGAGEMENT

While official details were lacking here, the German radio broadcast a Tokyo dispatch declaring the fight would "decisively influence the whole war situation" and Norman Makin, Australian navy minister, said in Melbourne the outcome might determine whether Australia is invaded.

No mention was made of an enemy convoy previously reported off New Georgia Island, northwest of Guadalcanal, which apparently was aimed at strengthening the Japanese forces that have been trying vainly to recapture Henderson airfield.

One 12,000-ton transport in this convoy was reported set on fire by Allied attackers.

British Troops Continue Chase Rommel Force

By LEON KAY

CAIRO, Nov. 16. — (BUP) — British forces driving through Libya have occupied the airdrome at Martuba, 670 miles from the Tunisia border, and are continuing their pursuit of the remnants of the German armored forces, a communique said today.

The British Eighth Army forces under Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, occupied Martuba yesterday and it was indicated that they must already have reached the key Axis base of Derna 18 miles to the west on their way toward Benghazi, Tripoli and Tunisia.

FEROCIOUS ATTACK

Allied bomber and long range fighter planes kept up a ferocious attack on the German forces all the way from the battle area to Tunis.

Long range fighters based on Malta made a low level attack on the Tunis airdrome at dusk Saturday, the communique said, and destroyed six big aircraft which the Germans had flown in from Libya and Sicily in their desperate attempt to slow the Allied drive from the west.

Other grounded Axis ainrcraft were damaged and one challenging enemy fighter was shot down.

Medium bombers followed up the attack with a raid on the Tunis airdrome Saturday night and started large fires with direct hits on buildings and workshops.

BOMB BENGASI AREA

The same night, Allied planes bombed and machine gunned the coastal area of Bengasi, the great Axis base toward which Gen. Montgomery's men are driving, and caused large fires and explosions in the port.

Fighter planes attacked the retreating enemy throughout Sunday in the area between Matruba and Bengasi, and shot down a German Heinkel-111 fighter which challenged them.

Long range fighters damaged fleeing Axis vehicles in the El Agleila-Agedabia area on the coast beyond Bengasi.

In air operations only five planes were missing.

Jury Places No Blame In Mine Deaths

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

CADOMIN, Alta., Nov. 16.—Verdict of accidental death was returned here Friday by a coroner's jury, investigating the deaths from gas of Robert Muir, fireboss, and Charles Swanson, miner, in the Cadomin workings Tuesday morning, November 10.

While the jury placed no blame for the dual fatality, a rider to the verdict strongly urged the Mines Department to take immediate action to ascertain what steps can be taken to minimize such accidents in the future.

The jury also highly commended miners Edward Coast and Marco Schepanovich for their valor in removing disabled men from the gas-sodden atmosphere in No. 1 main angle.

The inquest was held in the community hall on Friday evening.

CO-OPERATION OF BULLETIN READERS ASKED

Owing to the severity of the blizzard which held Edmonton in its grip Sunday and Monday and the resulting disruption of transportation facilities, Monday's editions of The Bulletin may be late in reaching subscribers.

The Bulletin appeals for the co-operation of its readers as far as the delay is concerned. Every effort will be made to place The Bulletin in the hands of every subscriber as early as possible, despite the storm.

STATEMENT ISSUED

Fighting French Disclaim Part In North African Negotiations

By WILLIAM B. DICKINSON

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(BUP)—The Fighting French forces of Gen. Charles DeGaulle issued a statement today disclaiming any part in or responsibility for negotiations proceeding in North Africa between Allied occupation forces and French leaders."

The statement, issued by DeGaulle and the French National committee, said:

"Should these negotiations result in arrangements which would in effect confirm the Vichy regime in North Africa, such decisions obviously could not be accepted.

"The union of all French territories overseas in the struggle for liberation should be achieved in conditions consonant with the will and dignity of the French people."

OPPOSE APPEASERS

The Fighting French appeared to be aroused by the growing influence of Admiral Jean Francois Darlan, who had long co-operated with Vichy despite his refusal to deliver the French fleet into Nazi hands, and the arrival of Pierre Etienne Flandin, former French premier, and Pierre Pucheu, minister of interior in one of the Vichy governments, in North Africa. Both had been appeasers.

The statement, issued after De Gaulle had conferred today with Prime Minister Winston Churchill, and "General De Gaulle and the French National

Today's War Moves

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

British United Press

The number of ships, planes, tanks and men which the Allies have poured into the African campaign make it increasingly evident that Hitler, lacking superiority either at sea or in the air, cannot get sufficient forces across the Mediterranean to stop the avalanche.

As the situation shapes up now, he is bound to be forced back on the defensive in southern or western Europe, or both. That raises the question of how well Hitler is equipped to stand his ground and hold the European fort.

The answer seems to be that he has a really powerful army avail-

R.A.F. Planes Batter Genoa In Night Raid

LONDON, Nov. 16. — (CP) — Home-based R.A.F. bombers attacked Genoa last night, making their second attack in three nights and the fourth this month on the north Italian naval base and port.

"Good results were seen," the air ministry announced.

Coastal Command craft were reported to have hit a medium-sized Axis supply ship off the Norwegian coast yesterday.

In neither the North Sea foray nor the 1,500-mile round trip to Italy was a plane lost.

CONDITIONS GOOD

Atmospheric conditions over Genoa were described as fine.

"The weather was good and the attack was concentrated," it was stated authoritatively this morning.

Genoa has been blasted again and again to cut its value as a source of Axis strength in the North Afri fighting ashore and afloat.

The Sunday night mission marked the third time the R.A.F. had hammered Genoa without a loss.

Soviets Again Beat Off Nazis At Stalingrad

MOSCOW, Nov. 16.—(AP)—With a frigid wintry wind sweeping across the steppes, the Red Army again beat off German attacks within besieged Stalingrad, advancing slightly in the Caucasus and, in a surprise move far to the north, snatched a "place of great tactical importance" from the Germans on the Volkhov front between Lake Ilmen and Leningrad. the Russians announced today.

Russian troops broke into the German-occupied community in an unidentified sector of the Volkhov front, forcing the Germans to withdraw, and then held it against all counter-attacks, the Soviet mid-day communique said.

"About one battalion of infantry was wiped out and war material was captured," the communique said.

Anglo-American Troops Clash with Axis Forces Near Bizerte Naval Base

Axis Claims Italo Fleet In Action

The Axis radio claimed that at least part of the Italian fleet—stiffened with Nazi warships—had gone into action against an Anglo-American naval force in the waters off the Algerian coast.

Anderson reported that 10,000 Axis troops already are ashore in Tunisia, largely concentrating at the air bases for which his speedy armored columns are driving.

The Nazis were pouring air power and reinforcements into Tunisia despite heavy air losses—61 planes thus far off the Tunisian coast and blasted on the ground at Tunisian airdromes.

Allied observers believed this indicated that Hitler has chosen to attempt to meet the Allied threat in Africa with a major effort in an attempt to keep the vital jumping-off ground for an Allied offensive against the European mainland out of British and American hands.

Italy On Alert Against Invasion

Already, according to reports by the Bern radio the Italians are maintaining a close watch along their long, vulnerable coastline for any Allied invasion thrusts.

It was believed doubtful that the Germans have any naval strength except submarines and possibly some motor torpedo boats in the Mediterranean. And it also was doubted that Hitler would be able to muster enough force in Tunisia to make possible extended resistance to the Allies.

However, it was said that the increased Luftwaffe activity indicated he is throwing into the fight everything he has available, much as the British sent their expeditionary force into Greece, despite the overwhelming odds against them.

Greek Campaign—In Reverse

Lt.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Lt.-Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, it was felt, were fully prepared to complete the parallel of the Greek campaign—in reverse.

Marshal Erwin Rommel is estimated to have about 20,00 men left of his original Afrika Korps plus another 30,000 or 40,000 Italians. However, most of these men are communications and base troops—not first line fighters.

Anderson estimated Axis strength in Tunisia at 10,000 men and said that considerable numbers of German Luftwaffe personnel already were on the ground.

Anderson reported that his men were "continuing our advance eastward as rapidly as possible" and said the initial objective was "airdromes now in enemy hands."

Incessant Aerial Attacks

Allied planes kept the Axis forces under incessant attack all the way from Libya to Tunisia, and British-based planes, supporting the gigantic North African operation, made their fourth big attack in 10 days on the Italian reinforcement base of Genoa.

An American army headquarters spokesman here said that reports broadcast by the Allied controlled Moroccan radios of contact between the Allied forces to the west and the Germans and Italians thrown into Tunisia in a desperate attempt to halt them, were assumed to be correct.

It was indicated that the main contact, so far between patrols, had been effected in the neighborhood of the Bizerte naval base.

Axis Admits Stiff Resistance

German and Italian broadcast spoke of stiffened resistance both in Libya and Tunisia, and Italy even reported "counter attacks" which were believed to be confined to naval and air force operations.

It was evident that the Germans and Italians were succeeding in reinforcing their men in Tunisia by sea and air and it was estimated they now had up to 10,000 men at key points, who were being bitterly opposed by the French garrisons.

A powerful Allied army was massing on the Algeria-Tunisia border and it was indicated here the showdown battle would open soon probably in the Bizerte area.

There were unconfirmed reports that big scale fighting already had started near Bizerte.

It was estimated that the remnants of the Axis army in Libya, fleeing before the British Eighth Army, numbered up to 60,000 men, largely second rate. (Twenty-two words censored.)

There were unconfirmed reports that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, facing an eclipse of his brief, much-publicized career, had arrived in Tunisia to take command of the Germans and Italians, after narrowly escaping capture at Tobruk.

Berlin radio indicated that Rommel would attempt to hold a line somewhere in Libya against the British Eighth Army until he could organize a final stand in Tunisia.

The German-dominated Vichy radio reported that a large formation of United States planes had flown over Lisbon, Portugal, presumably on the way to Africa.

Rome, possibly hinting at an Allied thrust across the Tunisia frontier, said Italian planes had attacked an airdrome on North Africa yesterday, "while enemy forces were occupying it."

ITALIAN CLAIM

The Italian high command communique today reported that numerous German and Italian troops had been landed in Tunisia "with the consent of French military and civil authorities."

A dispatch of the Vichy Havas News Agency reported that Vichy authorities had made the Toulon naval base area on the French Mediterranean coast a forbidden zone and that entry would be permitted only to persons who could plead grave illness or death of close relatives.

Vichy, quoted by the German radio, confirmed that Gen. De Lattre De Tassigny of the French army had been arrested in the newly-occupied part of France for trying to organize resistance to the Germans and said he would be court-martialed.

Vichy broadcast repeatedly to Africa appeals by Marshal Henri Philippe Petain to French forces not to obey Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, new commander of the French African forces under Adm. Jean Francois Darlan.

DESPERATE ATTEMPTS

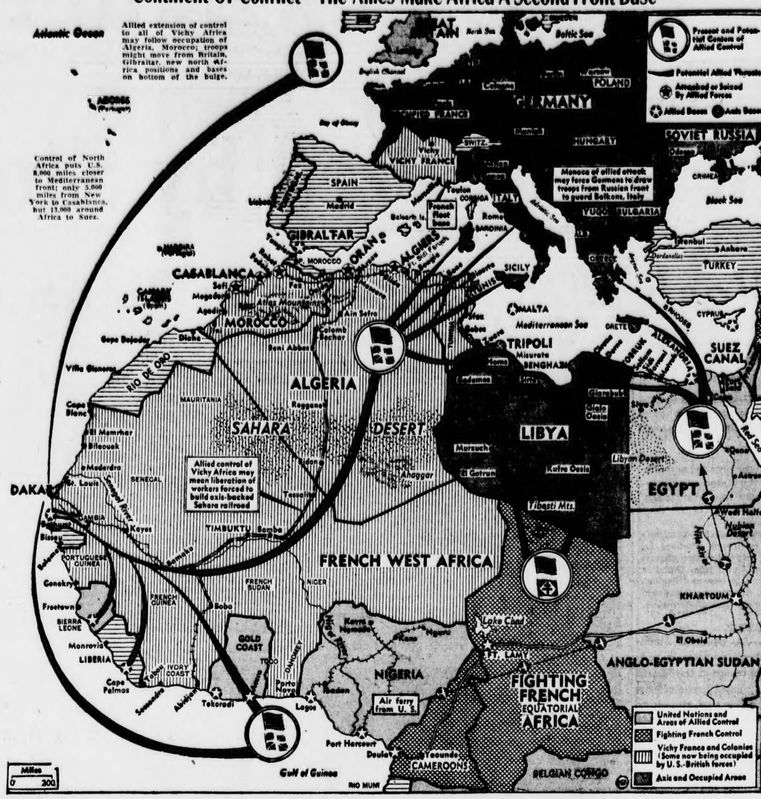
The failure of the German air force to appear in the western European zone indicated desperate attempts to get reinforcements to the Mediterranean, including Italy.

Not a German plane had been over Britain in a week, and allied raids on the continent were unchallenged.

American army Liberation and Flying Fortress bombers raided the submarine bases at La Pallace and St. Nazaire without loss saturday and Allied fighters failed to meet German planes in daylight sweeps.

There was some belief here that Rommel might attempt a stand in the neighborhood of El Aghella, 300 miles west of the Martuba air field on the Libyan coast which the Eighth army took yesterday, in hope that he could delay the British drive while he appealed to Adolf Hitler for mass reinforcements.

Continent Of Conflict—The Allies Make Africa A Second Front Base



All Africa above the bulge is a war theatre today with British-American forces in action from Morocco to Suez. North Africa under Allied control will be a base for bombing attacks on Sicily, Sardinia and Italy, and possibly for invasion of southern Europe. Allied forces from east, west and south can squeeze the Axis out of Libya and use the desert front as a base for attacks on Italy, Crete and the Nazis-held Balkans. Meanwhile, Anglo-American units may extend their occupation of French Africa to include Dakar and the vast area south of the Sahara.

City Traffic Paralyzed By Heavy Storm

Ltd. These companies said it was not expected milk supplies would be received from country points before Wednesday and that at the present time dairies had little more than one day's supply of milk on hand.

Bakeries will not be able to make house-to-house deliveries of bread until snowplows have cleared city streets. These firms also reported that it would be impossible to resume normal deliveries for a day or two.

Twelve-foot high drifts were reported in some sections of NorthKern Alberta, and in Edmonton the snow piled up waist-high in several sections.

Street railway traffic was badly tied up Sunday afternoon with street cars leaving the tracks as wet snow "balled up" under wheels. The department gave up the uneven fight against the elements about 7 p.m. and called off operations on all lines. At that time seven cars were off in different sections of the city, and two of the street railway sweeper-cars also were off the tracks.

The trolley bus service to the South Side was terminated when two busses stalled on McDougall hill, but the buses on the 95 street route kept operating throughout Sunday.

Hard drifting snow prevented clearing of the lines throughout the night, although every available man of the street railway department, and workers from the city engineer's department were at work throughout the night. As fast as snow was removed from tracks and streets the wind drifted it back again.

WARNING ISSUED

From an early hour Monday warnings were issued that the street railway service was tied up.

Thomas Ferrier, street railway superintendent, said that engineer's department plows would be put on the street railway clearance Monday morning, with the street railway sweeper cars following. He hoped that clearance of the lines could be effected sometime Monday, but added that with the damp nature of the snow it was just possible that pick and shovel work would have to be resorted to before the lines could be cleared.

Despite the severity of the storm, Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways reported that trains were getting through. C.P.R. officials said their passenger service was operating on schedule, while the C.N.R. reported that its service was operating on schedule with one or two exceptions where slight delays had occurred.

Bus operation was disrupted by the blizzard, but the Union Bus Depot reported Monday morning that three buses had arrived from Calgary during the night. Drivers stated that drifting was particularly bad between Edmonton and Wetaskiwin.

No buses were dispatched from the city Monday morning. Operators were waiting for reports on highway clearing operations by government snowplows. Bus operators also said they were awaiting reports from incoming traffic on progress being made.

The provincial department of public works reported that some of its equipment had been loaned to civic departments to assist them in clearing streets.

There were strange scenes on Jasper avenue throughout Sunday and Monday morning. Automobiles were stranded all along the "main stem;" hardy pedestrians were hard put to it to make headway as they floundered through drifts.

Pedestrians were ever ready to help motorists with a much needed "push."

Sunday was a great day for skiers, however. They were out on the river valley hills, and some of them even took advantage of the unusual experience of skiing over drifts along Jasper.

Police and fire departments reported a more or less quiet weekend as far as their departments were concerned. Only one alarm was rung in Sunday, this being a false one. Lack of alarms pleased fire department officials, who pointed out that equipment would have experienced considerable bucking drifts to get to fires.

Owing to the fact that all vehicular traffic was tied up, the police traffic department no major street accidents.

Street railway and engineer's department gangs were working on the Alberta Avenue and Spruce Avenue lines and were making slow progress toward clearing them.

As top snow was cleared from the tracks men went to work with pick and shovel to get the ice formation off the tracks.

Graders were put to work on the street early Monday to clear a trail for the workers walking to their businesses and offices.

Extra workers were taken on by the city to help out in the worst storm situation in the city's history. A. W. Haddow, city engineer, asked if an appeal would be made for volunteer workers said that he did not think it would be necessary to make such an appeal.

ARE SNOWBOUND

Officers at R.C.M.P. headquarters in Edmonton were without reports from country detachments concerning storm incidents Monday morning.

"I'm afraid our own detachments are also snowbound," Superintendent John Bird stated.

The superintendent said he was uneasy about motorists who had been caught on the Calgary Highway between here and Red Deer by the storm. Up to 10 a.m. Monday though, he had received no reports of such cases although it is known that there are cars stalled in the snowdrifts along the highway.

"I doubt if our men would themselves be able to get out with assistance to motorists stalled between towns," Superintendent Bird said.

All city utilities, with the exception of the street railway, reported normal operations despite the storm. There were no disruptions in power, telephone or water services. The normal natural gas service was also maintained.

TROOPS HELPING

Troops at the Edmonton garrison were assisting in general emergency work in the city where possible, Lt. Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant stated Monday.

A military truck from the garrison took a woman to hospital and there have been requests for assistance in other ways. The Northern Alberta Railways sought the assistance of troops in clearing snow along the right-of-way.

"Our position is this: We must maintain our regular training schedule as far as possible. We also have a local problem of snow clearing right at the armories here that has to be completed as soon as possible.

"We will assist in real emergency work where military regulations will permit only. There is quite a problem digging out 2,000 troops first," Lt. Col. Brown said.

All provincial government snowplows have been called in from Southern Alberta to handle the blizzard emergency on highways in Northern Alberta, Hon. William A. Fallow, minister of public, stated.

The minister said there was little likelihood that main highways would be cleared for another two days at least. "As soon as our plows from the south get into the blizzard area they will start pushing through," Mr. Fallow said.

He said that he had received reports that the northern and central sections of the province were hardest hit by the storm. Many districts within 150 miles of Edmonton have been isolated by blocked roads.

"Our entire highway staff was up all last night helping to dig people out of the drifts," Mr. Fallow said. The provincial government had given city officials all possible co-operation as far as supplying street clearing equipment was concerned.

He said that some city hospitals had appealed for assistance in getting streets adjacent to the institutions cleared of snow so that coal deliveries could be made and ambulances able to transport patients.

Provincial government equipment was being used on this work, and also to clear roads to local coal mines, the minister said.

Mr. Fallow stated that roads in all directions from Edmonton were blocked tight, but that all provincial services were co-operating to clear highways with all possible speed and that it was expected main roads would be opened within two days.

Snowplows working along Jasper avenue and 116 street toward the airport cleared a path for hundreds of workers on their way downtown.

The city engineer's department operated a snowplow attached to the front of a truck to clear the northbound roadway from Whyte avenue to Jasper avenue at 109 street and west along Jasper to facilitate pedestrian traffic.

CO-OPERATION

Unless citizens co-operate to the limit, and conserve milk, the supply in the city will be exhausted on Monday, stated Dr. G. M. Little, medical health officer, as he appealed to all citizens to use as little milk as possible and so save the available supply for infants and children.

"The situation here is extremely serious," said Dr. Little," and it is impossible to predict when the roads to the city will be opened sufficiently to allow farmers supplying milk to the city to resume shipments.

"There is only one day's supply available at the dairies. Unless citizens co-operate with the dairy companies a very serious situation for the children and infants may develop," he said.

Dr. Little was considering also a plan to provide transportation to ensure that persons seriously ill, and needing immediate hospitalization would be brought to institutions.

City Commissioner R. J. Gibb said that everything possible was being done by the city's staffs to open up transportation in the city. He said that gangs were working from the Alberta Avenue end of the street railway to clear the lines, but would not predict when the street railway would be in operation again.

There were many human interest stories on city streets Monday.

In one a young girl played the leading role. Met on 124th street at about 6:00 a.m. heading for the airport cafe, she was warned not to attempt to get there owing to the heavy snowdrifts.

"I've got to get through. Those boys and girls at the airport are depending on me. I've simply got to get there," she replied, as she trudged on.

ISOLATED BY STORM

Outlying districts were isolated by the storm, and many suburban residents were forced to take the day off. Night staffs at many firms remained on duty during the day owing to the shortage of help.

The army was called out Monday to assist in the emergency. Early in the day they answered a call from 9720 106 street to take a woman to hospital. Soldiers with an army truck bucked the drifts and brought the patient to hospital.

Americans at the airport stood ready with their cars to give whatever assistance was necessary.

Packing plant officials reported that deliveries of meat would be curtailed until streets were cleared. It was believed that retailers had sufficient meat in cold storage to meet Monday's demands. Hotels reported they had sufficient stock of meat on hand to last for a day or so.

Cafes expected there would be a lack of meat on their menus if deliveries were not made shortly.

HOTELS PACKED

City hotels were packed Monday with guests who were unable to return to their homes in other parts of the province owing to the condition of the roads. Lobbies and hallways Sunday night and Monday were crowded with persons seeking accommodation, for the day at least.

One young woman who was married Sunday was bemoaning the fact Monday that she couldn't find her husband. He had preceded here to the city to register at a hotel, but the hotel said he had not registered there owing to the fact that no rooms were available.

Many members of the armed services who were out for Sunday dinner were forced to remain with their hosts overnight owing to the lack of transportation.

30 CARS STRANDED

The R.C.M.P. reported that about 30 cars were stranded on the Calgary highway. No help could be sent to these motorists because no cars could reach them.

Work at Edmonton's Aircraft Repair plant was held up Monday as more than 1,000 employees found it virtually impossible to reach work in time for the 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. shifts. This emergency was met to some extent by night shift workers agreeing to carry on during the day.

ONE CASUALTY

Only human casualty from the blizzard of the week-end reported to city police was one man with slightly frozen feet.

George Muzychyn , of Myrnam, staying at room 6, Empire hotel, had fallen asleep in a car in front of the home of Mrs. McGannon, 11254 97 street Sunday night. Mrs. McGannon telephoned city police that two men were asleep in the car and officers went to investigate.

Police took the men inside the home of Mrs. McGannon and after removing Muzychyn's shoes found that his feet were slightly frozen. The other man did not suffer from frostbite.

Author Woods Outdistanced Nazi Gestapo

To obtain authentic material for "The Edge of Darkness," new Bulletin serial story starting Saturday, Nov. 21st, William Woods travelled extensively in Norway. He helped Norwegian refugees smuggle money out of the country, thus incurring the displeasure of a German smuggler. The Gestapo beheaded the Nazi smuggler who turned informer, then started after Woods. He raced the Gestapo to the edge of Switzerland, slipping over the border to make good his escape.

This is Woods' first novel, based on intimate knowledge of the Norwegian underground obtained as an experienced newspaper correspondent. You'll join the nation's leading book critics in hailing "The Edge of Darkness" as an outstanding story.

Church Bells of Britain, Silent Since Dunkerque, Hail Victory in Desert

By DOUGLAS AMARON

LONDON, Nov. 16—(CP)—The church bells of the British Isles, silent since Dunkerque, pealed out again yesterday to celebrate the victory of British arms in Egypt.

British youngsters who never have heard the sound of church bells—for their ringing has been reserved as signal for invasion — yesterday heard the chimes of Westminster Abbey, the measured tones of St. Paul's bell and the voice of St. Martin's-in-the-Field, and in Scotland the notes of old St. Cuthbert's in the shadow the great rock of Edinburgh Castle.

It was a sedate Sunday of rejoicing and thanksgiving during which people crowded into the smallest village parish churches and into the great cathedrals.

MANY SILENT

Its soberness was not lessened by the silent voices of some of Britain's most famous bells, destroyed in enemy air attacks.

No sound came from the fire-reddened remains of St. Clement's in the Strand, or from the slender tapered spires of St. Bride's in Fleet Street, or from Sir Christopher Wren's masterpiece, the shattered wreck that was St. James's, in London's Piccadilly.

By the King's order yesterday also was Civil Defence Day, set aside to commemorate the heroism of civil defence workers during the blitz.

Thousands of these uniformed civilian units marched through bomb-scarred areas to cathedrals and churches.

Detachments from all civilian regions marched in London's parade. The King, the Queen by his side, took the salute from the steps of St. Paul's.

Behind a band playing "The British Grenadiers" marched men and women from the bombed cities of Coventry, Birmingham, Southampton, Plymouth, Hull and a score of others marched past Their Majesties into the cathedral for special services.

They were firefighters, wardens, nurses and police from the bombed cities. Each detachment carried high a board bearing the name of the town or district it represented.

ST. PAUL'S HEARD

St. Paul's bells were heard despite difficulties. The full peal could not be rung because of fear of a further cracking of the tower, shaky from a bomb hit.

Even the famous tones of St. James at Belfast, which had rung not only for the accession of Queen Elizabeth, but for such great events as the defeat of the Spanish Armada in 1588, the great Irish battle of the Boyne in 1690 and Lord Nelson's death at Travalgar in 1805, issued from a tower which is all that remains of the church.

At Coventry, observing the second anniversary of the terrific air attack it suffered, the mellow old bells in the solitary remaining tower of the cathedral broadcast "O God, Our Help in Ages Past."

In Canterbury, bombed relatively only two weeks ago, 500 members of the city's civil defence services marched past the cathedral and the 12 bells of the mother church of the British Empire rang out the Victory Peal.

PARTNER MISSING

On getting to the bottom of the coal angle Edlund noticed that his partner Swanson had not got down to safety. Witnesses told of hearing firsboss Muir instructing Swanson to get out at the first intimation of gas. In his duties as fireboss witnesses told of Muir returning on discovery that all the men were not down to safety in an effort to locate timberman Swanson.

It was then that Muir lost his life. Sam Chesney fireboss told of rushing to the scene of the accident from another section of the mine in which he was carrying on his duties on being informed that two men had not made it to safety.

He told of efforts to revive both Muir and Swanson through artificial respiration methods. Pit Boss John Roberts told the enquiry of also rushing to the scene and efforts being made to revive the two victims. Mine Manager Edward Coupland also arrived on the scene and aided in these efforts accompanied by Jack James and a pulmotor. All witnesses stated that accident had occurred at or about 11:30 a.m.

JURY MEMBERS

The jury was comprised of the following. Peter McKenna, foreman, Cadomin; Frank Fallis, Cadomin; John Letcher, Cadomin; Robert Marshall, Mountain Park; Fletcher Pyne, Luscar; Silvio Tono, Mountain Park.

The following verdict was returned: We the jury find that Robert Muir and Carl Charles Swanson came to their deaths by asphyxiation while being employed at their duties in the Cadomin Coal Co. Mine at the top of No. 3 crosscut adjoining No. 1 angle and we attach no blame to anyone.

We would ask the mines department to see what steps can be taken to minimize such accidents. We highly commend miners Edward Coast and Marko Schepanovich for their valour in getting these miners out from the gaseous atmosphere in No. 1 main angle.

William Goodwin, mine inspector carried out the investigation for the Alberta Mines Branch. M. P. Sussnar, secretary treasurer of local 7296 United Mines Workers of America, acted as representative of the employees. Constable C. Derick conducted the investigation for the R.C.M.P. Coroner Ray Jones, of Mountain Park, presided.

Jury Places No Blame In Mine Deaths

Nick Melnyk, mining engineer, was first witness called and presented as his testimony a plan of the Cadomine and scene of the accident.

E. W. Coast and Marko Schepanovich told of gas having forced them down from their working place. They told of going back up as soon as gas showed a tendency to clear, as they had been informed that other miners had not made it out to safety. While crawling up the coal angle they came upon Con Doherty, Sr., who had been practically overcome by the gas.

After carrying Doherty to safety, Coast and Schepanovich returned to bring out Fred Gosney, who also had been overcome by gas. After completing their second rescue they continued their search for other men who it was believed had not come out safely. It was then that they found Firebass Robert Muir and Charles Swanson, miner, a short distance from each other. With the aid of others, including Pit Boss John Roberts and Firebass Sam Chesney, who had arrived at the scene, efforts were made by respiration to revive both Muir and Swanson, but to no avail.

MORE VENTILATION

In answer to a question by Mine Inspector Goodwin about the ventilation of the mine Witness Coast stated more ventilation was needed in the mine.

Witness Schepanovich when asked by mine inspector Goodwin as to suggestions to counteract the above gas situation stated he believed another rock crosscut be driven on the inside end of the panel as another airway. Fred Gosney and Con Doherty Sr. miners, told of also being overcome by gas and of not knowing anything of their rescue from certain death by Coast and Schepanovich.

Peter Morris, miner, told of working with Con Doherty Sr., when the pillar bumped, forcing out large quantities of gas. According to instructions they proceeded down to a safer section og the mine. On arriving Morris who was very nearly overcome by the gas noticed that his partner, C. Doherty Sr., who was following had not made a safe getaway.

Morris informed Coast and Schepanovich that his partner had not come down. It was then that the two men made their heroic rescue.

Felix Edlund, miner, told of working with the deceased Charles Swanson as a timberman at the time of the accident. He told of Swanson and himself having heard the gas bumps and as per instructions from mine officials having started down to safety.

Six Thousand Civil Workers On Alcan Road

By J. F. SANDERSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(CP)—Six thousand civilian workers moved into Canada and Alaska by plane, truck, boat and railroad to join United States army engineers in building the Alcan highway through 1,600 miles of the mountain record time, it was announced here yesterday by Thomas H. MacDonald, commissioner of the public roads administration.

It was the largest force of men and machines ever put to work on a single highway project, MacDonald declared on his return from an inspection trip over the route which now has been widened and surfaced, although not all of a permanent nature, for 1,184 of its 1,600 miles.

ENGINEERS IN CHARGE

Construction of the road has been under control of U.S. army engineers but the building equipment of 52 Canadian and American contractors, supplemented by hundreds of tractors, power shovels, portable repair shops and electric plants assembled from civilian conservation camps in the United States were used on the job.

The public roads administration negotiated contracts with four big contracting firms to act as project managers, one of them being the R. Melville Smith Company of Toronto. These contractors recruited 52 construction firms to move men and material to the job. The three routes used were by railroad to Edmonton, by water from Seattle to Skagway, thence by narrow-gauge railroad to Whitehorse or from Seattle across the Gulf of Alaska to Valdez and thence by highway.

Actual construction was started at many points along the survey route in May and June. The original plan for the army engineers to build a truck road and the public roads administration to follow with the construction of a permanent highway was revised in August because of the necessity of opening the highway for its full length as quickly as possible.

SURFACE ENTIRE ROUTE

The forces of the contractors have been given the job of placing a gravel or other type of surface on the entire length of the highway and of maintaining it for hard use. They now are working with the army engineers in grading many sections.

MacDonald announced that the Peace river, near the southern end of the highway, is being crossed by ferry but a temporary timber bridge is being built for winter use.

Today's War Moves

able for European defence but that he is badly handicapped by his awkward position in Russia. He cannot leave a mere holding force there through the winter, as he had planned, and divert a large part of his strength to the west. The alternative would be to accept defeat in Russia and stake everything on holding out in Europe.

There is no question that Hitler can put up a mighty defence in Europe and that he can hold out against a long campaign, barring internal collapse.

DEFENCE BIG FACTOR

In this connection, it is noted by a British war commentator that one of the remarkable features of the war has been the steady swing of advantage to defence and away from attack. The success of the Germans "hedgehogs" in holding firm against the Russian counter-offensive last winter, says this commentator, evidently has convinced the Germans that similar methods can make their European fortress impregnable against attack.

The United Nations, he holds, must re-establish the superiority of the offensive by devising new methods and combinations of weapons. Gen. B. L. Montgomery did something of the sort in smashing the strong Alamein defence line in Egypt, after which it was merely a process of mopping up.

Hitler apparently intended to establish a similar defence line in

SURPRISE ATTACK

French Morocco Defences Collapsed Rapidly Before Three-Pronged Yank Blitz

By HAROLD V. BOYLE

WITH THE U.S. TASK FORCE IN FRENCH MOROCCO, Nov. 8—(Delayed)—(AP)—United States naval and army forces attacked French Morocco before dawn today and before night fell they had planted the American flag in Northwest Africa and won the assurance of victory in the greatest amphibious operation in history.

Landings were made at three points along the hazardous, reef-ribbed coast by men who plunged from landing craft by the thousands into shoulder-deep foaming surf and waded ashore to storm and take vital areas in the face of pounding beach artillery and machine-gun fire.

The vast, three-pronged assault was aimed at Fedhala, 12 miles north of Casablanca; Port Lyautey, 60 miles farther north; and Safi, 140 miles south of Casablanca.

CAREFULLY TIMED

The blow, timed with landings in French Algeria at Oran and Algiers by a joint Anglo-American force, came as one of the war's major surprises.

French coastal batteries of the three Moroccan ports and French vessels operating out of Casablanca offered resistance.

United States navy planes and some of the heaviest warships of the fleet bombarded Casablanca harbor and turned back every attempt by the French ships berthed there to fight their way through the blockade.

Scant first reports from Port Lyautey said American troops all went ashore wearing the stars and stripes on arm brassards in the hope of avoiding conflict with their traditional allies.

Quickly the Americans won control of Safi.

Two United States destroyers dashed boldly through the harbor under a rain of gunfire to land assault troops and armored units soon afterward smashed through to take the city. Four-hundred prisoners, including many foreign legionnaires, were seized in the Safi coup.

FRENCH KNOCKED-OUT

The Vichy French army, consisting of Senegalese and Moroccan units as well as French armored forces, was all but knocked out of battle here in the first few hours by the more numerous and better equipped American soldiers.

Several military detachments surrendered after the initial onslaught. American casualties were relatively light.

American newsmen and photographers were allowed by the army to storm ashore with troops in the early assault waves under enemy fire.

We were in the third assault wave. The first two waves, which preceded us by a matter of moments, landed safely on a four-mile stretch of beach between Cape Fedhala and the Port de Blondin area known as the Riviera of French Morocco.

They had reached shore in the darkness surprising French batteries at each end of the beach. As we neared the coastline, however, a bright searchlight slashed the skies at Pont de Blondin and then swept seaward, catching our assault wave.

In a bright glare, we ducked to the bottom of the boat. Machine-gun bullets ripped across the water at us. A naval support boat on our left flank opened fire at the searchlights with .50-calibre machine-guns.

GRINDING CRASH

Then came a grinding crash as our landing boat smashed at full speed into a coral reef which has helped to win this shore the name or Iron Coast.

We plunged from the sides of the settling craft up to our armpits in the surf and struggled to the reef, finally landing.

The searchlight had been knocked out or our entire force on the beach would have been shot down like pigeons.

Our position quickly became dangerous. We were caught between our own fire and the batteries of Pont De Blondin above us. We split away from the beach and turned toward Cape Fedhala.

As we watched, very lights flared near Pont De Glindin indicating its batteries had been silenced by troops of the infantry after a naval bombardment.

By the time we reached the outskirts of Fedhala above its beaches the real battle had been decided.

CIVILIANS CHEER

French civilians cheered and applauded the American troops.

The infantry struck close to the town itself and by the time I reached there the first battalion had swept through and cleaned out all the opposition, capturing in the town a company of the 6th Regiment of Senegalese Riflemen and elements of the mechanized forces who were equipped with old, light Renault tanks and some 25-millimetre anti-tank guns.

In a field back from the beach area stood a sullen-faced group of nine Nazi officers and men, members of the German armistice commission in French Morocco who had been channelling the country's wealth to the Reich.

The group, including a colonel, had been captured by American intelligence officers as they tried to flee town. Another German officer was shot to death by American soldiers as he tried to escape.

I saw a French soldier seeing them with hate and try in vain to get an American soldier guard to let him examine his weapon. His intention to shoot as many of the Germans as he could was obvious.

Canuck Seamen Decorated for U-Boat Attacks

OTTAWA, Nov. 16—(CP)—Navy Minister MacDonald last night announced the King has approved the award of one distinguished service cross and one distinguished service medal to an officer and rating serving with the Royal Canadian Navy and the mention in despatches of 11 other officers and ratings.

Awarded the D.S.C. is Lieut. Alan H. Easton, R.C.N.R., of Lachine, Que., Acting Leading Seaman Kenneth Eleyne Medford, Montreal, receives the D.S.M.

MEN MENTIONED

Mentioned in despatches are Lieut. Anthony G. Osburn, R.C.N.V.R., Vancouver; Sub-Lt. N. H. Chapman, R.C.N.V.R., Kingston; Stoker Petty Officer J. H. Allison, R.C.N.R., Halifax; Engine Room Artificer R. I. Stuart, R.C.N.V.R., Ottawa; Able Seaman G. J. Saunders, R.C.N.V.R., Montreal; Lieut. W. W. Hackney, Westphal, N.S.; Acting Leading Seaman John B. Bing, R.C.N.V.R., Regina; Lieut. A. G. S. Griffin, R.C.N.V.R., Hamilton; Mate J. A. McLeish, R.C.N.V.R.; Signalman P. E. Dallaire, R.C.N.V.R., Montreal, and Chief Engine Room Artificer (now warrant engineer) S. Clarke, R.C.N.V.R., Sydney, N.S.

Mr. MacDonald said the honors list reflects successes by ships of the Royal Canadian Navy in the "unceasing war" against enemy submarines.

"Further details to those contained in the official citations," he said, "cannot, for operational and security reasons, be given. The war at sea is a grim one, being fought steadily and relentlessly, I think, however, the citations will, in themselves, show some of the aggressive work being undertaken by our ships against the enemy, as well as providing additional cause for pride in our men."

BERNE, Nov. 16—(AP)—Six more persons have been executed for high treason against Germany in Bohemia and Moravia, it was reported Saturday in dispatches from the Prague newspaper Der Neuetag.

Jackson Dodds, Noted Canadian Banker, Retires

MONTREAL, Nov. 16—(CP)—Jackson Dodds of Montreal has decided to retire as joint general manager of the Bank of Montreal, ending a distinguished career of 45 years in the banking world, it was announced last night by the bank directors.

The announcement, which made no mention of a possible successor, said the directors had acceded to Mr. Dodds's request for retirement from "active service" with "great regret."

NATIVE OF LONDON

Mr. Dodds, 61 and a native of London, England, branch of the Comptoir National D'Escompte de Paris and later joined the Bank of British North America, serving with them in Europe and later in Canada and then for a time in London.

In 1919, after 18 years with that institution, he entered the employ of the Bank of Montreal, serving as assistant manager of the main office in London, England, for a time and then being transferred to Western Canada, first as district superintendent of Manitoba branches and later as assistant general manager in charge of western branches.

In 1928, he came to Montreal as assistant general manager, becoming joint general manager in 1930.

As president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, Mr. Dodds represented Canada's banking institutions before parliament's banking and commerce committee in 1934, prior to the last revision of the Bank Act.

MILITARY CAREER

Mr. Dodds had a distinguished military career in the First Great War. He enlisted in the army at the outbreak of war and went to France in September, 1914, as a private in the Honorable Artillery Company. In May, 1915, he was commissioned in the Royal Army Ordnance Corps in England and, returning to France and Belgium in 1916, rose to the post of assistant director of ordnance service in the 6th Army Corps, with rank of Lieutenant-Colonel.

He was demobilized in 1919 after being mentioned four times in dispatches.

Compulsion For Reserve Army Being Studied

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 — (CP) — Compulsion for service in the reserve army was understood today to be under active consideration.

While there are a number of questions relating to it which have yet to be settled, its adoption in principle may come at any time, informed sources said.

1—Single men in the age groups liable to call for active army service under national resources mobilization act—19 to 40 inclusive —who have been medically examined and found in categories "B", "C" and "D," making them ineligible for active army service.

2—Single men in category "A" who already have been called for compulsory service but whose training has been postponed because they are key men in essential industry;

3—Married men.

NO OBSTACLES TO PLAN

Some time ago Defence Minister Ralston said there was no political or legal obstacle standing in the way of compulsory service for the reserve. The two sources of legal authority for its application are the Militia Act and the National Resources Mobilization Act. Under either one men can be required to serve part-time in the reserve. Just as they can be required to serve full-time in the active army, officials said today.

For months past the reserve has been carrying on active recruiting campaigns in an effort to bring all units up to full war strength. Many reserve units have reached full-strength by the voluntary recruiting method, but many others are still short of men.

One of the problems to be settled, when and if compulsion is brought upon, is the method of selecting the men to be called. The reserve army is not interested in men who live at a distance from units, and it was said farmers are not likely to be called to any great extent.

MAY USE LOTTERY

It is possible the names of the men who are declared eligible for service in the reserve in each area may be put in a hat and the number of names required may be drawn. If hundreds of a district system a selective system should be chosen, the names might be turned over to the officers commanding units requiring men. These officers could then select the men they consider most likely to fit into their units.

Under the intensified training program now in effect throughout the reserve army, men are required to attend drill parades two evenings a week, a two-week camp during the summer, and sometimes Sunday or week-end manoeuvres.

They draw pay at the basic rate of 1.20 per day for a private soldier and are provided with meals when on day-long parades.

Tons of sugar are sold daily in the market places of Mozambique, where this commodity is considered candy.

Seamen Bid Life Adieu But Live to Tell Tale

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Thirteen torpedoed British merchant seamen who escaped from a swamped lifeboat to a derelict half-ship in mid-Atlantic and there held a "farewell-to-life" party with abandoned stores of chicken and liquor, live to tell the tale.

British naval sources disclosed the story last night. They said that when hope of rescue had fled and the half-ship seemed in danger of sinking, the men held their party to the tunes of a portable phonograph. Later a passing ship picked them up.

Frederick Mullins, navy gunner who was wounded when the merchantman was torpedoed, told the story this way:

"Thirteen of us were in the lifeboat which swamped as we pushed off, and we lost most of our stores."

BOARD HULK

After sighting the hulk and drifting away from it the men finally boarded it.

"I remember seeing a grapefruit rolling to and fro on the deck and managed to grab it," Mullins said. It tasted better than beer."

Below the men found living quarters intact and a half-eaten meal on tables. The seamen bedded in bunks and slept most of the next two days.

Although there was little left of the ship, the man managed to get up steam, but then found they were unable to start the engines. The bulkheads were leaking so the men feared that the ship soon would sink and they decided upon their farewell party.

We roasted chicken, cooked vegetables and potatoes and had plenty to drink," Mullins said.

HOLD TOGETHER

But the wreck held togther, and the men passed two more days whiling away time with the phono graph and playing whist.

Then they sighted lights and signalled for help.

"The ship must have thought we were a U-boat playing tricks. She circled out of range all night," Mullins recalled. "In the morning she came closer and rescued us."

French on Corsica Battling Invaders

LONDON, Nov. 16—(CP)—The Moscow radio broadcast a Tass dispatch from Zurich Saturday night saying French troops on the Island of Corsica are offering stiff resistance to the Italian occupation. There have been smart skirmishes between French and Italian troops, Tass reported, and a large fuel depot at an airport at Bonifacio was burned.

De Gaulle Issues Policy Statement

OTTAWA, Nov. 16. — (CP) — A statement of policy issued at the London headquarters of Gen. Charles De Gaulle, in which the Fighting French Movement reiterated its willingness to welcome to its ranks "All the French people who are sincerely re-entering the fight for the liberation of their country," was distributed to the press here yesterday by Col. P. H. Pierrene, Canadian delegate of the French National Committee.

Referring to "political developments in North Africa" which were not specified, the statement said: "It is unconceivable for fighting France to lend itself to any manoeuvre to tolerate compromise, to bend to any condition."

"French resistance is assembled around Gen. De Gaulle in France as well as outside. French resistance will pursue this task. The unity of this resistance should not be imperilled."

It Won't Save Gas

Conditions in Alberta are not the conditions in Ontario, in respect to transportation.

In the older province there is a network of railway lines, distances are short, and train service is frequent. In Alberta railway lines are far apart, distances are great, trains are few in number.

The order limiting bus travel to 50 miles in a continuous journey may impose no hardship on the public in Ontario. It will if enforced impose very real hardship on the public in Alberta.

Busses radiate from Edmonton daily to distances of far more than 50 miles. But for these, people in outlying districts would have to travel by private car if they wished to get into the city. Even those living near railway points would in many cases have to catch trains in the middle of the night.

This is not a matter which involves the convenience of only a small number of people, but of hundreds every day in the week.

There will be no economy of gasoline or tires if thousands who now travel by bus in this province are compelled to use private cars, as they will be if the 50-mile limit is enforced. The way to effect the desired saving would be to further restrict the use of private cars and keep the busses running. It takes less gasoline and less rubber to keep a bus going than it does to operate a whole flock of family automobiles.

After Six Months

Admiral Nimitz, commander of the United States fleet in the Pacific, is not a man of words. He has held only three press conferences in eleven months. But the third was of a kind to give assurance that the fight in the western theatre is going favorably.

The Admiral specifically refused to suggest that the Japs are "on the run," which gives force to what he did say. The marines, he said, will hold their ground in the Solomons, and push ahead. Their morale is excellent and their losses have been disproportionately small. And "the Japs are losing a lot of ships."

This summary of the situation there is more emphatically true now than when it was made a few weeks ago. U.S. forces are on the offensive in Guadalcanal, and the score of enemy warships and transports sunk in the waterways of the great archipelago is steadily mounting, not only in numbers but in comparison to Allied losses.

At the other end of the Pacific, U.S. and Canadian bombers are hammering Kiska whenever the fog lifts, with diminished opposition from enemy air forces and ground defences. And in New Guinea the Australians have cleared the invaders from the southern side of the mountain barrier.

It is still some weeks short of a year since the attack on Pearl Harbor and Hong Kong. The gains which the Japanese made they made during the first five months. Since May they have advanced nowhere, except the abortive venture in the Aleutians. They have lost some ground in the south and the north and in China. Nor have they yet launched the projected attack on Siberia. If they are not on the run, neither are they "on the march."

Compared with the situation six months ago, the position now is decidedly encouraging to the Allies, and must be inducing some heavy thinking at Tokyo.

Who's Who?

A writer of comic operas could surely find a rich mine of material in last week's antics of the company of adventurers who lately posed as the government of unoccupied France and the guardians of the French empire abroad.

When news came of the Allied landings in Morocco and Algeria, Marshal Petain ordered the garrisons there to put the invaders out. When the Nazis raced into unoccupied France, the Marshal reproved the Fuehrer, but didn't take the field to vindicate Vichy's oft-proclaimed "neutrality."

Laval naturally headed for Munich to get instructions, only to bring back a schedule of terms which he did not dare to make public. Admiral Darlan thought it advisable to put the Mediterranean between himself and the gestapo.

The orders and counter-orders which flew thick and fast from Vichy and from Algiers had only one thing in common; they neutralized each other and left everybody, including their authors, wondering what was behind it all. Darlan reversed the Petain order by telling the African garrisons to lay down their arms. When Petain ordered the fleet to stay at Toulon, Darlan requested the fleet to leave, but wound up his invitation with a salute to the Marshal!

The governor of Morocco carried out the Petain resistance order for awhile, then flopped and lined up with Darlan's reverse order, adding that he thought this was what Petain really wanted. Petain responded by again telling the garrisons to fight.

It may be that Governor Nogues gave the key to this maze of inconsistencies. It may be that Petain—with Laval's advice—is playing a deep game of deception; pretending to aide with Hitler while really encouraging collusion with the Allies. The alternative is to suppose that the double-dealing opportunists who composed the Vichy cabal have mined and counter-mined until none of them knows where another is "at".

Fortunately the Allied leaders do not have to solve the riddle. If France is to be saved it will have to be saved without effective aid or leadership from Petain, Darlan, Laval and company. The others will likely enough try to do what Darlan has already done—climb on the band-wagon. But they had better be told plainly that the less advice they give the more welcome they will be.

V

The imbecilities and hypocrisy of Vichy landed the cabinet there in the curious position of being bound by its own declarations to fight both the Axis and the Allies. Petain denounced Hitler in violating the armistice, and the Allies for violating the neutrality of the Vichy colonies. He completed the complication of absurdities by refusing to fight the Axis in France but ordering his officials to fight the Allies in North Africa. France lost nothing by the disappearance of that cabinet of shames.

The War Loan

Asked for 750 million dollars, our Canadian people have handed the government a sum little short of 1,100 millions.

This is a fine testimony to what a free democracy can do in war. A proof that our Canadian people are ready to make voluntary sacrifices and deny themselves things for the sake of a great cause. Hitler and his satellites don't understand such a spirit.

But let congratulating ourselves—not forgetting the men who organized and worked so hard to make this loan a success—let there be a note of soberness. This loan is not the last one of this war. We are spending now far in excess of $5,000,000,000 a year, and strive as we may not much more than half of that can be had through taxes. The other half will have to come from borrowings, from the willingness of all of us to give something of what we have left after paying our taxes, and within six months we shall have another loan.

Yet the worst of our war financing problem is over. We are all better mobilized now, and as the national income rises—as it is rising—and with luxuries and non-essential articles off the shelves, there is going to be increasingly more money left over after taxes to channel into war effort. That it will be channelled there, and in abundance to equip and feed our armies, there need be no doubt at all.—Ottawa Journal

It Was Good Policy

Regardless of what may follow the disturbance of relations between Washington and Vichy—or, later, between the British nations and the regime nominally in charge of French affairs at the provisional capital—this newspaper recalls that it has been one of few Canadian dailies which took Mr. King and Mr. Churchill at their word when they agreed it was good business for the United Nations that Ottawa should not sever the diplomatic link with the Petain-Laval administration.

It has now been proved—and freely admitted by some journalistic skeptics in the United States, for Washington, of course, took its cue from information obtained there—that Admiral Leahy on his return a few months ago—that if this Canadian-British-American policy had succumbed to uninformed pressure, the operations which began on the northwestern African coastline in the early hours of yesterday morning either might have been seriously delayed or made substantially more difficult than they were. It was essential, in the first place, to retain the friendship of the real French people and, in the second place, upon the free flow of reliable information from Vichy depended to an important extent the development of the United Nations' "grand strategy."—Victoria Times.

Not All for One

Editor, Bulletin:

The Army and the Air Force
And the Sailor boys in blue
Don't wish to tell the government
Just what they have to do.
But when they started giving
All the workers in the land
That little extra bonus,
Then it's time to tell the band
To play the lads at Ottawa
A tune that's good and true:
"Oh, Canada, we stand on guard for you."
So that they'll know that we have wives
Just like civilians, too.

Sing, Smile, Whistle

Editor, Bulletin: It is well these times to take counsel of those who have seen active service in order to save our skins, and one thing they would say is: "Avoid being disciples of misery in all its forms."

Such disciples are bad for morale and if unscrupulous should be left to stew in their own juice. They would not help to make the sick well, neither would they give heart to our own boys.

The best way to offset it is to take the opposite course: sing, smile, whistle, and so strengthen our morale.

Be Fair To Students

Editor, Bulletin: If the government wants students to enter science at the University, can't someone stick up for them? Why call them slackers? Maybe their brains may help us out in some tight spot before this war is over.

I live near a boat-building plant and hear lots of talk. You will find lots of boys of military age now in the plants, and working only four days a week, but the government gets none of their money.

I have no relation out at University, but like fair play. Are the boys out there not taking military training?

Bus Service

Editor, Bulletin: If bus service from Edmonton west is discontinued it will create a great hardship on all farmers there.

There is only train service three days a week at present and many cannot afford to travel that way as trains reach Edmonton about 7 p.m.

This means hotel expenses for the night and as the train leaves again at 1 p.m. next day it does not give time to do much business.

I have a motor car which I was going to lay aside for the winter and probably many out here were going to do likewise, but if bus service stops I shall continue to use my car.

"Bumper Crop"

Editor, Bulletin: So much has been said both in press and over the radio about the present position of the farmer with regard to the bumper crop (so-called), prices for farm products, etc. Much of this has been pure bunk.

In the first place about the price of wheat. Many city people do not know the very simple fact that the 90 cent price for a bushel of wheat means 90 cents for a bushel of wheat at the head of the Lakes with elevator charges and freight to be deducted. That means that if a farmer in Alberta has No. 1 wheat straight gr. de he might get around 70 or 71 cents a bushel, depending on his freight zone. But owing to frost and weather damage very few farmers have No. 1 wheat this year. The crop is grading from No. 2 down to feed. It is doubtful if the average price received by the Alberta farmer will be more than 58 or 60 cents. Many farmers place that average too high. This year the grading seems particularly tough.

Then again, only a limited amount of coarse grains and wheat can be sold. Many points are still on a five bushel quota. Some points have been raised to eight bushels, with the very strong probability that only a fourteen bushel quota can be sold on a strictly limited acreage.

But that's not all by any means. This crop is been a heavy expensive proposition to handle. Farm wages have soared to a point beyond all reason as compared with the price of grain and other farm products. On these products we have to sell various ceilings have been put, but no ceiling on farm wages. Then again living and production costs on the farm have increased tremendously. So the western farm has had to spend his last dollar and strain his credit to the limit to finance the harvest of the present crop. Many farmers after selling their quota did not realize enough money to pay the thresh bill alone and had to sell cattle or something else to pay the hard pressed thresher or combine operator.

New World Order

Editor, Bulletin: During the first year of the war a few of us suggested that the government can not start too soon planning for post-war rehabilitation and a new world order for preservation of peace and economic security for all, but always the cry was, win the war first!

Then came along the Atlantic Charter covering all the ground, with the cry that there is an ever-growing opinion in support of a new world order.

It behooves all who have the interests of humanity at heart to continue to strive for a world association of peoples, free from menace of war and poverty and a realization of the truth, as Ruskin has it, that "We are all bound together as men are to a mountain by a glacier. If one fails the others must pick him up or carry him along as dead weight."

This to me is the core of Christianity and real civilization.

Cutting Coupons

Editor, Bulletin: Million thanks to Edmonton Bulletin for "publishing the comment of Chairman Walter George, of the Senate Finance Committee on the $25,000 salary limit, proposed by President Roosevelt. This is the first hand information as to what terms a capitalist thinks of the low class wage earners.

Quoting in part, "the fellow who is working for something as against the fellow who is just sitting and cutting coupons." Here he means that a fellow who get $200,000 a year is, "working for something," and a fellow who earns $1,000 a year, "is just sitting and cutting coupons."

A very frank admission of sympathy a financier has for the small wage earner.

It must be a pity, that so far we had unit to measure electricity (kilowatt) engines in horsepower but not human effort until Mr. George discovered one.

Taking low wage earners we find among them such as, school teachers, clerks, mechanics, clergymen, etc., men who possess high qualifications, and who number in millions and millions.

Taking anyone of them, for example a school teacher, who if instead of teaching, "is just sitting and cutting coupons," the whole year. Can a $200,000 a year cut as many coupons as 200 such teachers? Or could he be intellectually 200 times smarter?

Here, Mr. George, if this his salary man can cut 200 times as many coupons as the teacher in question he certainly must be, "working for something," but if he can not, then his few coupons must be worth 200 times in the capitalist's world more than the teacher's.

Why the Distinction?

Editor, Bulletin: If this war means anything at all it must end all hypocrisy, whether of fear, want or injustice.

The Old Age Pension Board has not been slow to have orders-in-council enacted which leave many in dire need. Can not enough public opinion be invoked to start implementing the Atlantic Charter immediately by an order-in-council?

Why the distinction in nursemaid and old-age pensions? Who can measure the value another has contributed to the community? Only serious disabilities should call for more allowances.

The boys are sacrificing life itself and it is up to us at home to show we are not letting them down, but fighting for decency and a better world to live in.

Small Time Editor

Editor, Bulletin: In Monday's Bulletin your Harold Weir took it upon himself to criticize Wendell Willkie. I think we think he was very much out of place on a small-time editor like him.

Now I am a constant reader of The Bulletin and very seldom read his column as I have never seen anything to it. As far as his Saturday review is concerned I think it is just to hear himself talk. But when it comes to a small-time editor like him telling Willkie after flying around the world, what he should and should not say if he is such a far-sighted man as he would have us believe, I for one, cannot understand why King has not asked him to pick out his cabinet for him.

Does he think Great Britain or the British Isles have plenty of men to answer Willkie without him butting in?

Tail Twisting

Editor, Bulletin: In "Time" issue of Nov. 9, page 33, I notice what appears to me a rather odd note about China, griping because the British have not agreed to cede Hong Kong to China in surrendering extra-territorial rights.

My memory is that Hong Kong, when the British got it, was not much better than a swamp. Of no value except that it was a "building site" in a place the British needed, and that just about everything of value that is now there was built by the British—maybe others—but got China.

What is the matter with "Time" and "Life"? Both seem to be determined to pick a fight with the British about one thing or another. That "open letter" was "much knowledge and no wisdom."

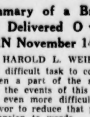
Saturday Night Radio Review

A Summary of a Broadcast Delivered Over CFRN November 14

By HAROLD L. WEIR

It is a difficult task to comprehend even a part of the significance of the events of this week. It is an even more difficult task to endeavor to reduce that partial comprehension to words.

Perhaps no man living can appreciate all the implications of what has occurred. Without the perspective of time and space, even the experts must rely largely on guesswork and intuition.



Harold L. Weir

Last week the British completed their rout of Rommel's Nazi-Italian Army. On the heels of that victory, by pre-arrangement, the American armies crossed the Mediterranean and western parts of the African continent.

We know what has been the immediate consequences in a factual and military way.

The French Empire has virtually disappeared. France is left without a government, even the illegal one that prevailed at Vichy. Hitler has repudiated the armistice with France and his armies have invaded most of the hitherto unoccupied section of that country.

All the important parts of Africa are in Allied hands.

Admiral Darlan who, along with other Vichy figures, appears to have gone over to the Allied side, has requested the French fleet at Toulon to join the British at Gibraltar or some North African port.

The French fleet hesitates, however, knowing it is under the guns of German forces in the Toulon harbor.

In Russia

These are the bare facts. But what do they mean?

How will the concentration of German forces in Southern Europe affect the campaign in Russia? These men must have been withdrawn from somewhere. Yet the most recent despatches indicate that the Germans are pressing hard around Stalingrad, aided by reinforcements.

Unless Hitler has the secret of Cadmus' dragons' teeth, his forces must be exhaustible. It seems reasonable to suppose, therefore, that sooner or later there must be another break somewhere.

Hitler obviously fears a European invasion from the lower side of the continent. Indeed, many are beginning to wonder why the Americans did not land on continental French soil instead of on colonial French soil in Africa. One would have been as easy, presumably, and as legal as the other.

It is clear that the British and Americans do not intend to dig in and rest on their laurels in Africa. If they attempt an attack on lower Europe, it is equally clear that Hitler would be hard pressed to defend both the Russian and the southern fronts, to say nothing of watching his western coast where the Canadians in England stand poised to attack at the most favorable moment.

Three Sides

Hitler, then, is threatened on three sides. Only the most amazing luck and generalship can prevent him from being vulnerable on one of them.

If he protects the southern and western fronts adequately, the Allies may sweep across Europe into Germany. And they have the men and equipment to do it.

Altogether, the result of this strategy seems to have been to place Hitler in a highly precarious position.

It would be foolish to say that the war is won. But we can admit that, for the first time since the war started, we have manoeuvred our Allied forces into a position from which we might be able to strike a mortal blow.

Hitler has been outguessed, outgeneralled and outfought in the whole vital operation of the whole struggle. We may expect still greater events to follow.

Highlights

But while the earth quaked with all these gargantuan movements, the element of humor, as it always does in times of stress, peeped through the tremendous drama of the news:

For instance, the Rome radio, frantically trying to glean some comfort out of the desperate Axis situation in North Africa, broadcast this with a feeble attempt at justification:

"The Allies are failing in the Libyan desert. Their armored units are totally unable to stop the retreat of the Axis army."

Then we were told that an R.A.F. unit captured a German general who had special sheet music prepared for the occasion of Rommel's triumphal entry into Alexandria.

An excited Japanese, speaking from a radio station at Saigon in Indo-China, solemnly broadcast this:

"All attacks in landing operations have been repulsed on the African coast except where they have succeeded."

Mr. Churchill contributed to the humorous events of the week when he spoke in the House of Commons about Hitler's surprise over the African affair. Said Mr. Churchill:

"Hitler could not guess. He had to conjecture about the military idiots and drunkards."

Then the Prime Minister added dryly, "He was quite uncivil from time to time."

The naive Japanese added another smile when they described General Eisenhower's appeal to the French of North Africa to help the invading allies as "a most unpatriotically act."

This rudeness must have deeply grieved the hearts of the little fellow Chesterfields of Hong Kong.

Misgivings

But if the world, found time to stop and smile as the destiny of mankind was being shaped in the furnace of history's most grievous affliction, Adolf Hitler apparently saw little humor in the situation.

Speaking to his beer-cellar pals in Munich on the night of November 8, the Fuehrer dismissed the defeat of Rommel and the landing of the Americans with theatrical contempt.

"This," he said airily, "won't win the war." He said the Germans would prepare counter-blows and win back all that was lost.

Then he added this significant thought:

In me they have an opponent who doesn't even think of the word capitulation. There will be no repetition of the 1918 collapse."

Now what put that idea into Hitler's head? Who spoke to him about capitulation? Who ever hinted at a repetition of the 1918 collapse and the flight of the Kaiser?

Certainly no one in Germany would dare to say such things. And there has been no undue talk about these subjects among the Allies lately.

From where, then, did these thoughts arise?

In some ways, Hitler is a very simple fellow, naive and almost childlike. It is frequently so in the processes of his mind.

Haunted

It is as clear as it can be that Hitler has been forced out of the very depths of Hitler's heart. They haunt him always. The fear that he may mistake, that he may run away, that his powerful Reich might collapse—these dreadful things never leave him.

And so when the news of the African coup delivered a terrific blow, these inner fears were forced to the surface. He was compelled to give them words.

And, I think, in this revelation we have the secret of Hitler's weakness. The man is eternally and devastatingly afraid of himself.

That doesn't mean that the man lacks confidence in himself or has any doubt of his own omniscience or omnipotence. His fear is rather a moral fear. It is the constant dread that, having set himself up as a god, he may fail to behave as a god.

And, indeed, it is hard to conceive of a god tortured by nightmares, of cowardice, failure and collapse.

The more Hitler boasts of his strength, the more he advertises his inherent weakness.

And he is morally weaker today than at any other time in the war. His is the kind of mind that cannot bear misfortune. It is too bad for him that he is going to have to endure so much of it.

Japan

And, indeed, the Allied exploits in Africa were a mortal blow. Even our military experts cannot say just how devastating a blow it was.

It ends forever, of course, Hitler's dream of Africa, which, strangely enough, seems to haunt every imperial conquistador. It has broken up the profitable Berlin-Vichy arrangement. It has halted plans for an attack on North America by way of West Africa.

But the manner in which it has interfered with other wild dreams of grand strategy only God and Hitler can tell.

There must have been some idea, somewhere, of linking up, at some point and at some time, with the Japanese armies to complete the conquest of the world. Africa was the essential link between the German and Japanese forces. And now Africa is out of the sphere of Axis influence.

There is little likelihood now of any concerted attack on India. Germany can render Japan absolutely no assistance in any field of warfare.

Nor is Japan likely to undertake an invasion of Siberia in conjunction with the formidable and large port of the German army fighting in Russia has been withdrawn to deal with the menacing situation in France, Africa and Southern and Middle Europe.

Barring possible thrusts in the form of pocket-holding operations, Japan must now concentrate on consolidating and holding what she has.

She may be expected to take more steps comparable to the invasion of the Aleutian Islands. But her participation in any grand strategy is unlikely for the simple reason that that grand strategy has been completely upset.

Rumor Clinic

And now the rumor clinic for tonight:

The Rumor: That a recent attempt was made to destroy the High Level bridge in Edmonton by removing a rail during the night.

The Fact: No such thing was ever attempted. This rumor arose because the passengers on a few trains have witnessed track repairs being made on the street car tracks. They jumped to the conclusion that sabotage had been attempted. There is absolutely nothing to it.

The Rumor: That the elimination of cuffs on trousers, double-breasted suits, etc., is nothing but the effort of the clothing trust to make more money.

The Fact: Wool is scarce. Our military experts in South Australia but this has been seriously curtailed due to limitation on shipping space and the hazards of ocean transportation. Also tremendous quantities are necessary to clothe and feed our armed forces. By eliminating every unnecessary piece of cloth in civilian clothing, an extra suit or so can be provided out of a given cargo. Australia insists that these are the only reasons for the simplification order of Mr. Eisenhower's appeal.

The Rumor: That the supply of aspirin is to be frozen in consequence of Hitler and Mussolini having such bad headaches that they have tried to commandeer the world's supply.

The Fact: I haven't heard anything about this, but I should think that was highly likely.

The Rumor: That some alien owners of threshing outfits in Alberta have deliberately passed up their Canadian neighbors with the idea of curtailing the wheat crop. The Fact: The rumor is without foundation that this is a common practice. The police, however, have the matter under investigation.

The Rumor: That 16 ships out of a convoy of 25 were sunk in the battle of the Fuehrer channel off the Gaspe Peninsula a few weeks ago and that corpses have been washed ashore on the coast of Gaspe.

The Fact: The Department of National Defence in Ottawa says that no ships totalling 16 out of 25 ships been sunk in the St. Lawrence and the story about the corpses has never been reported here.

This ends the rumor clinic for tonight. Please send items to report them. Send them to me at The Edmonton Bulletin for investigation and discussion.

Historic

Lloydminster Week. Pilot Officer George Beurling of Quebec, one of Canada's greatest flying aces, made history when he was presented to Prime Minister Mackenzie King at the parliament buildings in Ottawa.

The Prime Minister said to Beurling, "What is the secret of your success?"

Beurling replied, "I guess it is my upbringing by my parents."

In this age when parents are largely regarded by their children as amiable but helpless old fools, it is refreshing to think that remark was truly historic.

Mr. Weir broadcasts every Saturday night at 5:15 over radio station CFRN (1260 Kc.)

There were fewer "surplus women" when war broke out than there had been for 15 years previously.

This is revealed in figures just published by the Board of Trade. According to these, the population of the United Kingdom in the middle of last year was 47,676,000—22,920,000 males and 24,756,000 females.

But apparently the bachelor still has a choice—until one of the 24,756,000 decides he'll do.

Export Sales Of 'Peg Wheat

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Exporters and Mills took 300,000 bushels of December wheat on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. The December future closed unchanged at 90⅜ cents a bushel.

Four hundred thousand bushels of Canadian wheat were sold for export to the United Kingdom today, with an additional 100,000 bushels for shipment to an unidentified neutral country.

Sale of 1,000,000 bushels of high grade wheat to shippers featured trade in the cash wheat market. Other transactions were limited to odd carlots of various grades.

Shippers and mills were credited with support in oats. A local buyer took 500,000 bushels of both oats and barley futures. Rye trade was light.

Prices held at previous closing levels with oats tending to ease toward the end of the session.

Country marketings at Winnipeg Nov. 14 totalled 1,329,000 bushels compared with 1,242,000 bushels a year ago.

Grain inspections Saturday for Nov. 14 and 15 totalled 986 against 1,710 a

Brigadier Gault Progressing After Fracturing Leg

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Brig. Hamilton Gault, D.S.O., who raised and equipped the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry during the First Great War, is making "reasonable progress" after fracturing a leg in a fall. Part of the leg was lost in the last war. He is up and about each day, but is still in hospital.

Brig. Gault, a former Conservative of the British House of Commons, was recalled from the reserve of officers in 1940 and is again serving with Canadian overseas forces.

HELSINKI, Finland, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Three Finnish commands today claimed Finnish submarines sank three large Soviet submarines recently in the Gulf of Finland and the Baltic.

Farmers Not Forbidden To Raise Wheat

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said today that western farmers have been urged to switch from wheat-growing to the growing of feed grains and flax, but that he had never heard of an consideration being given a plan to forbid the growing of wheat in large sections of the prairie provinces.

Mr. Gardiner was replying to questions based on a Winnipeg report that "a spectacular change in western Canada's wheat production for 1943" is under consideration, with indications the federal government was seriously considering prohibition of wheat growing in prairie districts "least suited to its production."

"I cannot imagine anyone discussing a program of forbidding the growing of wheat in certain areas with any hope of such program operating effectively," the minister said.

Mr. Gardiner said his department was urging farmers to feed each beef animal until it has eaten the last pound of grain that will profitably put beef on it. Those who produce wheat had been asked to become as far as possible producers or feeders of feed grains. If there were any change in western crops next year it should be from wheat to oil-producing crops such as flax.

It is understood that Ottawa has recognized that many western sections are suitable only for the growing of wheat, and that in these areas wheat has to be depended on as the most important crop.

In recent years, wheat has been used more and more as a feed grain.

SECURITY... FOR THE PEOPLE... BY THE PEOPLE...

FRED: "Who? Me? How does my insurance help finance the war?"

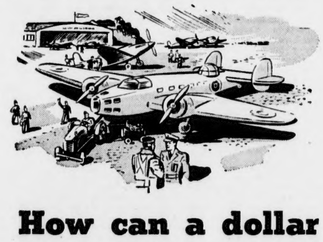
FRANK: "Why, brother, on an average, Canada's four million policy owners have premium savings of over $112 invested in war loans, enough to buy 18,000 of those battling Spitfires."



How can a dollar be in two places at once?

That's easy, if it's an insurance dollar.

You put this dollar into an insurance premium, and you say to yourself, there's my dollar, as safe as a church.

And so it is.

But if you think that your dollar just sits still in a big vault and twiddles its thumbs until you're ready to take it back in some form of benefits—either for yourself or your family—you're mistaken.

If you looked for that dollar you'd find it was busy.

You'd find that that dollar has gone to war! Just where you'd want it to go.

Your premium dollars, and millions of others, have been loaned to your government to help carry our arms to victory.

Instead of these dollars in the vault, there is a pile of War Bonds. And they are as safe as a church, too. All the enormous resources of Canada are behind them. There is no safer investment in the world.

That is why over another hundred and fifty million dollars of insurance savings have been invested by life insurance companies in the latest Victory Loan—making a grand total of over four hundred and fifty million dollars in war bonds. And that's an average of over $112 so invested for every insured person in Canada.

So you can feel doubly happy about every dollar you have put into insurance. It protects you and your dependents—and at the same time it helps to protect the whole nation—by supplying the tools of victory.

Victory is everybody's business. Everyone should work, save and lend to the limit.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

ALTHOUGH a survey from the underside of a snowdrift may possibly give a somewhat distorted view of the situation, it is nevertheless rather hard to see where the much-heralded solution of the Dominion football final which was supposed to come out of the east over the week-end has done anything to solve the problem.

The suggestion to have Winnipeg R.C.A.F.-Bombers settle the east's semi-final by playing the Ottawa winner without even a hint of a re-arrangement of the G.-F.U. schedule certainly does not place the latter body in any more favorable light than it had previously appeared.

It apparently all simmers down to a case of the Ontario Union adopting a "take it or leave it" attitude and while it might be a concession to have the western winner pinch hit for O.R.F.U. survivor, the whole thing doesn't seem to add up just right.

PROTEST RATHER LATE

WHETHER the fact that there undoubtedly was acquiescence on the part of the other interested parties in not protesting the late playoff arrangements sooner, yet Dec. 12 for a final should never have been considered in the first place.

The middle of December is even too far advanced into winter for even tragically located Ontario, aside from the fact that it must have been obvious that this would entail five or six weeks layoff for the western winner.

One thing, however, is clear and that is President "Whit" Matthews has made a valiant attempt to iron out the difficulties and further more the present mixup cannot be laid at his door.

HERE AND THERE

W. "SCOTTY" BROWN, who starred on the gridiron here in the days when Deacon White's team were monarchs of Western Canada football and later coached junior and senior Eskimo teams himself was a visitor to the city over the week-end . . . "Scotty" makes his home in Vancouver, where he is in the engineering game and is as keen a football enthusiast . . . C. S. "Catsy" Mills, who was a star lineman under the same Brown, also paid Edmonton a call . . . He's now a northern agent for Canadian Pacific Airlines.

Sergeant Riley "Moon" Mullen, coach of Red Deer's Canadian Army hockey entry, dropped into town Saturday for the day and is quietly confident of his team's chances in the Alberta Senior hockey league race. Mullen, who starred in coast league circles before returning a few years ago to Alberta amateur ranks, agrees there is a lot of power on the other clubs in the circuit but believes the fast, young squad he has at the Red Deer training centre will give a good account of itself during the coming season.

It was just a case of bang, bang, bang for Bus Algar in the Victoria Army-Nanaimo game on Saturday night. Three goals in seven minutes are pretty fair going. Bill Carse, another Edmontonian was right in there too with a goal and a pair of assists.

C.R.U. Plan Would Mean Gain of Week

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP)—R. W. Hewitson, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union, said Sunday night the C.R.U. had proposed to Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers that they meet Ottawa Senior City League champions at Ottawa Nov. 28, the winner to meet the Ontario Rugby Football Union champions Dec. 5 for the dominion championship.

The C.R.U.'s action followed a meeting of the O.R.F.U. at which the proposition was made that the western champions play the Ottawa team in a semi-final game on that date.

The O.R.F.U. said it was found impossible to speed up its schedule to meet the Dec. 1 deadline set by the Royal Canadian Air Force for participation in further play by R.C.A.F. service teams.

"There is too much at stake in next week's games," the secretary said. "Two of the teams have a chance to get into second place and a third has a chance to tie for second place."

Bailey said no suggestion was made as to where the Nov. 28 and Dec. 5 games would be played. This should be decided by the Canadian Rugby Union, he added.

The Sunday meeting was held with the hope of finding a solution to the tangled dominion championship question.

The O.R.F.U. was very interested in having a team in the C.R.U. playoffs, the secretary said, but could see no other solution than the one proposed.

The Ontario Union will end its regular schedule next Saturday. R.C.A.F. Hurricanes have already clinched one of the two playoff berths in the Union but the second still is in doubt with Toronto Navy, Toronto Balmy Beach and Hamilton Wildcats all within striking distance.

WINNIPEGGERS WILL HOLD MEETING TODAY

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Art Chipman, chairman of the management committee of the Winnipeg-R.C.A.F. Bombers, western Canada senior football champions, said Sunday night that a meeting would be held today to discuss proposal of the Ontario Rugby Football Union to have Winnipeg meet the winners of the Ottawa Senior City League Nov. 28.

The O.R.F.U. proposal stated that the winner of the series would meet the O.R.F.U. champions Dec. 5 for the dominion championship.

ALTERNATIVE PLAN NOT LIKELY TO WORK

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—An R.C.A.F. spokesman said Sunday night the Dec. 1 football deadline imposed by service authorities was "final", and could not be changed. He was commenting upon a proposal made at a meeting of the Ontario Rugby Football Union in Toronto that the winner of the Ottawa R.C.A.F.-Rough Riders playdowns meet Winnipeg Bombers Nov. 28, and that the winner of that game meet the O.R.F.U. champions for the dominion championship Dec. 5.

Jack Welch, president of Ottawa Rough Riders, said that team would have to "consider" the O.R.F.U. proposal before taking any action upon it.

Playing under strange rules the Army team showed surprising power and piled up the winning margin in the first half.

Woodcock scored the first touchdown in the opening quarter and Arnold Hodgson converted to give Army a 7-0 lead. Tom Norris, formerly with Sarnia Juniors, sent a 35-yard kick over the line in the second quarter but Varsity touched back and the play added two more points to the Army score.

Pinker Pine and Pevsner combined on the next scoring play with Pine carrying the ball over for the last touch which went unconverted.

Oakwood Indians Upset R.C.A.F. Hurricanes 15-6

TORONTO, Nov. 16—(CP)—The aura of invincibility which has clung all season to Royal Canadian Air Force Hurricanes in the Ontario Rugby Football Union vanished completely Saturday when the Fliers were humbled 15-6 by the lowly Oakwood Indians in the biggest upset of the season.

Meanwhile in Hamilton Wild Cats retained a mathematical chance of gaining a playoff berth when they defeated the luckless Kitchener-Waterloo Panthers 20-1.

Results of Saturday's games found Toronto Balmy Beach holding the coveted second spot in the standings by a one-point margin over Navy. Hamilton was fourth with 10 points, one back of Navy.

If Hamilton wins against Navy at Toronto next Saturday while Beaches lose to Toronto Indians, Wildcats and Beaches will be tied for second place. If scoring averages count anything, Wildcats will be in the playoffs against R.C.A.F. Hurricanes, if not, a semi-final will be necessary.

At Toronto the Indians, most of them just up from high school football ranks, tackled like demons, hailed the vaunted R.C.A.F. running attack, ripped the Hurricanes' line to shreds and outfoxed their hitherto unbeaten opponents at almost every turn.

While big Annis Stukus, who is quarterback, captain and backfield coach for the Indians, garnered all 15 points, he was given adequate assistance by several youngsters. One of them, young Mickey McDonald, a high school star last year, was ripping through gaping holes in the R.C.A.F. line for gains of as much as 20 and 25 yards.

In the Ottawa City League, the Ottawa Rough Riders blanked Civil Service 6-0.

Invented Catcher's Mitt in Year 1888

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16—(AP)—Joe Gunson, 79, the man who revolutionized baseball by inventing the catcher's mitt, died at his home here yesterday. The mitt was born of necessity on Memorial Day, 1888, when a foul tip injured Gunson's fingers when he was the only catcher with Kansas City in the old American Association. Gunson fashioned a mitt to protect his injured fingers.

Dropped From League

Regina Army Team Objects Playing With Civilian Club

SASKATOON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Another upheaval in the ranks of the Saskatchewan Senior Hockey League game at its scheduled meeting here Saturday when the Regina Army team objected to participating in a league with a civilian team and was dropped from the circuit.

Regina's action left Saskatoon R.C.A.F., Yorkton R.C.A.F., Moosbank R.C.A.F. and Flin Flon Bombers in the league. Representatives of these four clubs will meet at Regina next Saturday morning to draw up a schedule.

Following a long discussion over the Regina case the meeting passed the following resolution: "That the league consist of Saskatoon R.C.A.F., Yorkton R.C.A.F., Mossbank R.C.A.F. and Flin Flon Bombers. The Regina No. 120 Basic Training Centre Club was not included in the league owing to the Regina team's objection to participating in a league with a civilian team, namely Flin Flon Bombers."

The delegates considered Flin Flon position and agreed it was an A1 war industry, and, such being the case, these clubs can considered them eligible for league membership."

NEW FEARY

The Mosshank R.C.A.F. team was admitted to the league during the Saturday morning session before the long debate on the Regina Army case came before the meeting. Mosshank will play its home games at Moose Jaw.

Regina Army was represented at the meeting by Capt. H. J. Dorrance who stated that he had definite instructions from his superior officer in Regina that the Army team could not play in a league with a civilian team. He did not give the meeting any reasons for his superior's views.

The league decided to play a 12 home and 12 road games schedule.

The clubs agreed on a constitution and changed its name from the Saskatchewan Services Senior Hockey League to the Saskatchewan Senior Hockey League. The constitution provides that all players be registered with the C.A.H.A. and S.A.H.A.

GRANT CONCESSIONS

R.C.A.F. units were granted permission to play all personnel at their own and adjacent units, including civilians attached to the units for duty.

Owing to the shortness of the schedule, the league agreed on a seven-game semi-final and final series in the playoffs. The first team collecting eight points will be the winner of the round. The first and fourth teams in the standings will meet in one semi-final and the second and third teams in the other with the team highest in the standing having the choice of the first home game.

In order to reduce travelling as much as possible, Flin Flon agreed to select Saskatoon, Moose Jaw or Regina ice for its home games in both the semi-final and final series.

Union Prexy Issues Denial Lytle Claim

A. W. Matthews, president of the Canadian Rugby Union, in a statement to The Canadian Press at Edmonton denied a report by Andy Lytle, sports editor of the Toronto Daily Star, that in failing to speed up playoff schedules leading to the Dominion football final the C.R.U. had ignored warnings of the R.C.A.F. authorities."

"Certainly no representation of any kind from R.C.A.F. sources came to my attention before the pronouncement from Ottawa last week.

Ottawa authorities of the R.C.A.F. announced last week that no Air Force team would take part in Canadian rugby playoffs after Dec. 1. The announcement upset plans for the Dominion east-west final Dec. 12, since Air Force teams seemed likely representatives from both east and west.

In hitting back at critics of the C.R.U., Mr. Matthews said the disclosure of Herb Manning, Winnipeg Tribune sports writer Saturday that messages went from Winnipeg to Ottawa suggesting that some attempt be made to advance the date of the east-west playoff, was "very enlightening indeed."

"We now begin to see evidence of the work of a deft hand, experienced in such matters, but not previously discernable in this present tangle," the C.R.U. president said.

He said the Ontario Rugby Football Union "the one active union that has gone resolutely ahead through the whole season, finds criticism being heaped on its head from many quarters for carrying through with its full schedule of games, to the inconvenience of the late comers.

"Speaking as a westerner, and without any advance information as to what the final decision of the O.R.F.U. will be, I should say that teams in Winnipeg and Ottawa have no real cause for complaint with regard to the position in which they now find themselves."

In regard to the decision of the R.C.A.F. not to take part in football after Dec. 1, Mr. Matthews said since it remains the policy of military authorities to approve of participation of service teams, surely it must be recognized that the entry of a team in a nationally organized sport carries with it certain obligations to the fans who support the leagues and to officials who endeavor to arrange playoffs at the end of the season.

Granted there is always the possibility of special military circumstances which may necessitate a sudden change of plans, nevertheless the opinion seems to be held in many quarters that even that in this particular instance the decision announced in Ottawa so suddenly last week, may not have been prompted entirely by the reasons given out.

"After all a considerable number of other athletes in the armed services are just starting in on a season of competitive hockey which leads up to Allan Cup playoffs next April and May, and quarters from this whole period of restricted training conditions that has been mentioned in the dispatch from Ottawa. At any rate, that is a considerably longer season than the football season, even though the final is not scheduled until Dec. 12."

Rookie Defenceman Clicks for Rovers

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—Vic Lynn, rookie defenceman, drilled a 20-foot shot in the waning minutes of overtime to give New York Rovers a 5-4 victory over the Curtis Bay Cutters of Baltimore in the first game of a United States amateur hockey league doubleheader at Madison Square Garden Sunday.

The victory put the New Yorkers in a first-place tie with the Philadelphia Falcons, who were idle.

In the second game of the double bill, Brooklyn Torpedoes and Jamaica Hawks played a 4-4 overtime tie. Goalie George Cutranis of Jamaica knocked in what proved to be the tying goal for the Torpedoes.

Jamaica was ahead, 4-3, with only four minutes remaining when Cutranis made a gloved hand stop of Kenny Braun's hard shot only to let the puck drop into his cage and give Brooklyn a tie.

Chicago Moves Up At Leafs' Expense

CHICAGO, Nov. 16—(CP)—Chicago Black Hawks slipped into second place behind Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League Race Sunday night by upsetting Toronto Maple Leafs 5-4 before a packed house of 16,089 wild fans.

Handing the Stanley Cuppers a defeat for the second consecutive night, the Hawks poured in the winning goal at 17.33 of the final period with veteran Bill Thoms having the honor on assists by the Bentley brothers, Max and Doug.

During the hard-fought contest, enlivened by a fist fight between the Leafs' Bucko McDonald and Bill Thoms, the score was tied twice.

After spotting Toronto a 1-0 lead in the first period when Syl Apps scored on passes from Bob Davidson and McDonald, the Hawks broke loose for two markers in the second to take a momentary 2-1 margin which was squared with 2½ minutes remaining by Sweeney Schriner's shot on assists by Billy Taylor and Lorne Carr.

DETROIT STRENGTHENS GRIP ON FIRST PLACE

DETROIT, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Detroit Red Wings tightened their hold on the National Hockey League championship Sunday night by scoring two third-period goals to defeat Montreal Canadiens, 3-1 before 12,021 spectators, largest crowd of the young season here.

The top Detroit line of Don Grosso, Sid Abel and Eddie Wares evidently just getting into high gear after a slow start, dominated the scoring, each bagging a goal. The third period shot matched Gordie Drillon's goal that put Montreal in front after one minute of play, and Grosso and Wares connected 85 seconds apart in the third period.

It was the Rangers' first home defeat of the National Hockey League season and left them on even terms with the Bruins in the standings with two victories apiece.

Boston made a fine comeback after being two goals behind early in the game to win out on Flash Hollett's cleverly executed goal early in the third period. The Rangers led 2-0 at the end of the first period and 3-1 late in the second.

Then the Bruins began to move. They tied the count in the last 10 minutes of the middle period, notched the winning goal at 1:09 of the third and put up a strong defence to nullify the Rangers' efforts to get back into the game.

BLACK HAWKS SPOIL TORONTO'S HOME RECORD

TORONTO, Nov. 16—(CP)—The undefeated home record of Toronto Maple Leafs toppled Saturday as Chicago Black Hawks accorded great goaltending by veteran Bert Gardiner, shaded Leafs 4-3 before 11,419 fans.

After that Leafs kept play almost constantly in the Chicago area but Gardiner could not be beaten. He handled 18 shots over the final 20 minutes compared with three stopped by Broda.

Boll scored two goals and set up another pair.

Murph Chamberlain, another veteran replacement, also starred in the victory road by caging the rebound of defenceman Jack Crawford's drive from the point. Buzinski, the Rangers' rookie goalie, during the third minute of play. Crawford registered the second Boston goal, after Clint Smith and Ward Pike's Brimsek early in the opening frame. Sports .... Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—Ever hear how Germany Schulz, Michigan's great centre of 1904-08, made an all-American player out of Bill Hollenbach? . . . This is the way Harvard's Dick Harlow tells it. When Penn played Michigan in 1908, Schulz knocked out both Penn centres in the first half. A Sub Lineman was hurriedly instructed how to pass the ball on five plays, and to make sure the quarterback wouldn't try any others, the coach chalked the numbers of those five on the seat of the new centre's pants . . . On the first scrimmage, Schulz made the centre sit down hard, and when he came up, only one number was legible . . . The quarterback had to keep calling that one—an end run by Hollenbach—and Bill looked so good that he won All-America fame.

The day of the game the coach failed to appear. . . . The kids were donning their uniforms when the phone in the dressing room rang . . . "I got run down by an automobile filled with teams used to slay . . . Luke Johnson, Chicago Bears' coach, had to turn down an offer of $50 a game to scout Notre Dame for his old alma mammy, Northwestern, because of a club rule that no Bear can scout a team coached by an ex-Bear. Bob Snyder is the ex working for Frank Leahy . . . When he goes overseas for the Red Cross, Freddie Corcoran, the P.G.A. tournament man, wants another peek at Scotland's Troon course . . . "It was just a run-of-the mine golf course before the first war," says Fred, "but the R.A.F. used it for practice bombing, field and the crafts and natural hazards that resulted made it one of the most difficult and picturesque courses in the world".

Safety Man

Last spring the Yale crew elected George Pillsbury, junior sweep-swinger from Minneapolis, as its 1942 captain . . . George won't get a chance to work at the job, as he'll be graduated in January under the academic speed-up play . . . So the other day the oarsmen got together to elect another captain and played it safe by picking Jeffrey Walker—a sophomore.

Sport Shorts From Britain

LONDON, Nov. 16. — (CP) — A little fellow who won the Derby on Lord Derby's Watling Street this year, Harry Wragg has been reduced in army rank—and is bubbling over with joy.

As Sgt. Wragg of the Royal Artillery he had a cushy job in an office and didn't like it a bit. He applied for and received a transfer and, as so often happens in such cases, was reduced to the rank of a corporal. Now he's on the guns and in a hot spot.

"The other night I though the bombs were dropping in my pocket," Harry said. "And I'm happy because I could answer back."

Now his ambition is to bring down a Nazi plane. He says that would give him more satisfaction than riding three Derby winners.

A record wartime price in Britain for a yearling came during a bloodstock sale at Newmarket when Aga Khan, through a representative, gave approximately $38,000 for a bay colt by Hyperion-Eclair, property of the American millionaire, Marshall Field, who is selling his British racing stock.

At the same sale, Solway, the horse called "the bookmakers' friend" because of his repeated failures this season when starting as a hot favorite, was sold — to a bookmaker. Purchase price was $3,000. Solway was owned by Lord Derby and has yet to win a race. He failed dismally in several classics including the Derby.

Twenty-two mares and 13 foals went for an aggregate of nearly $100,000. They were the second instalment of horses from the stud of the late Lord Glanley, purchased by a London building contractor for $500,000 and offered for re-sale. Highest price of $24,000 was paid by the Aga Khan for the four-year-old mare Clovelly.

The first batch, made up of horses in training, stallions and yearlings, realized $235,000 last August. The remainder will be auctioned at Newmarket in December.

GREETING THAT PAID

GLASGOW. — (CP) — Sir Daniel M. Stevenson, Chancellor of Glasgow University, was so moved by greetings received on his 91st birthday that he donated the equivalent of $270,000 to the university and a similar sum to the Scottish National Academy of Music.

Georgia Tech, bidding for the Southeastern Conference title for the first time in years, whipped Alabama 7-0 for its eighth successive triumph before a crowd of 34,000 at Atlanta.

Georgia whose clash with Georgia Tech Nov. 28 may settle the Conference championship and a bid to one of the major bowl games, rolled over Chattanooga, 40-0.

Boston College smashed over Fordham 56-6, the worst licking Fordham has taken since 1913.

IRISH BEATEN 32-20

Meanwhile a crowd of 57,500 jammed Notre Dame's stadium at South Bend and saw Michigan's Wolverines push over three quick touchdowns in the third period and hand the Irish a decisive 32-20 trouncing.

Missouri was held to a 6-6 draw by Oklahoma in the big six. Kansas dropped a 20-13 decision to Iowa State.

Georgetown, Pitt and Army all hung up intersectional triumphs. Pitt won 6-0 over Nebraska; Georgetown defeated North Carolina State 28-0 and Army coasted to a 19-7 triumph over Virginia Tech.

Southern California, Stanford and California all earned Pacific Coast Conference victories. Southern California trounced Oregon 40-0 while Stanford whipped Oregon State 40-13 and California stopped Montana, 13-0. Washington held St. Mary's pre-flight to a scoreless tie.

LEAD BIG TEN

Ohio State's Buckeyes, paced by Paul Sarringhaus, Leslie Horvath and Tommy James, crushed Illinois, 44-20, and gained undisputed possession of the Big Ten lead. Wisconsin, scoring the winning touchdown in the last 18 seconds on a pass from Len Seeliger to Mark Hoskins, tripped Northwestern 20-19 and moved into second place in the race. Minnesota rolled over Iowa 27-7, in the third Conference game of the day as Indiana romped at Kansas State's expense, 54-0, and Purdue bowed to Michigan State, 19-6.

Texas Christian humbled Texas, 13-7, with Beecher Montgomery in the starring role, and turned the Southwest Conference race into a neat tangle with Texas, Texas Christian and Baylor all still in the running.

Tulsa, unbeaten, untied leader of the Missouri Valley, remained in the running for a Bowl bid by turning back Baylor, 24-0, in a non-conference game.

Today's Sport Parade

By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(BUP)—Not since the days of battling Siki, that wild Senegalese who was light heavyweight champion 20 years ago, has there been anyone in any boxing division who completely captivated the crowd with his hell-for-leather primitive pummeling as did Beau Jack at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Battling Siki was born in the wilds of Africa where missionaries called him "Louis Fall." Beau Jack was born at Augusta, Ga. He never knew his father. He has faint recollections of his mother. His grandmother first called him Beau Jack and a truant officer insists that his name is Sidney Walker.

Maybe so. But the boxing world will remember the bull-shouldered Negro from Georgia as Beau Jack. if for no other reason than his upset victory last Friday night over highly-touted Allie Stolz of Newark, N.J.

CAME UP HARD WAY

STOLZ was the No. 1 lightweight contender. He had not been beaten since the summer of 1941. He went into the ring a 3-1 favorite because he was a master-boxer. But, as Jack Dempsey once said, "It doesn't matter what you know in the fight business, it's largely a question of where you came from—and how."

Dempsey, who came up the hard way, claims that is the only route in 99 of 100 cases, that a fighter can batter on to greatness. The Manassa Mauler's philosophy gained robust support when Beau Jack won that technical knockout over Stolz in the seventh round.

Beau Jack is a savage fighter. He is such a menacing bundle of wiry muscle and brown skin that New Yorkers and those who saw him win those battles royal in Augusta decided that he was worth bringing to New York—up to the big time.

HIS savagery and effectiveness in those Georgia battles royal, in which he was the last of six or seven Negroes left in the ring, led to formation of a "syndicate" of sportsmen for the sole purpose of bringing him to New York. That syndicate included many of the country's most prominent sports men. Hence, this muscular Negro, who can neither read or write and who is given an allowance of $5 a week, came to be called the "Stork Club Battler."

Many of the smart-money boys along 49th Street figured that Beau Jack was made to order for their betting Friday night. After he weighed in at the unexpectedly low weight of 132½, the odds lengthened to 18-5 in Stolz' favor.

But Beau Jack, his body hardened by toil since his orphan days, treated the fans to a night of savage and primitive lambasting. He threw punches from all angles as persistently as did the great Henry Armstrong in his hey-day. He missed a lot of them, but he kept coming in—wilting—as Stolz melted before him. He could have kept up this terrific pace for 15 rounds, although the fight was sceduled only for 10, because he is an innocent savage whose body came up the hard way, as Jack Dempsey says it must, to be a great fighter.

Man has domesticated two insects: bees and silkworms.

Gooden's Case Likely To Require Some Explaining

By CHARLES EDWARDS

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Wuxtra! Wuxtra! The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association bars apparently are down. Professionals may obtain reinstatements by the day, week or year at C.A.H.A. wickets. Puzzle: What is a professional?

Bill Gooden, winger with Portage La Prairie's junior hockey champions last season, signed a professional contract with New York Rangers and opened this National League campaign in Toronto. But, although Gooden is reported militarily exempted because of defective hearing, Selective Service delayed granting him a permit to play in United States. Pending negotiations, Rangers left Bill in Toronto. Then what? Gooden scored the only Niagara Falls goal as Port Colborne beat the Cataracts 3-1 Friday night in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association—an amateur (?) league.

Billy Hewitt, C.A.H.A. registrar, explains Gooden was reinstated by the C.A.H.A. as an amateur for Friday night's game only. And, says Billy, Gooden is still a professional and still with Rangers. Friday amateur, Saturday professional, Sunday ? ateur, Monday wash day, Tuesday—what? Sir! Apps has tonight off with Toronto Leafs and maybe the Beaverton Rockets could use him for that game with Plum Coulee.

Liverpool One Point Up

Southport Beats Blackpool; Arsenal Back in First Place

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP Cable)—Leadership in two of England's major football leagues changed hands Saturday, Liverpool moving to the top of the Northern section and Arsenal regaining first place in the Southern.

Blackpool, winners of 12 straight, found the 13 jinx too much and lost 3-2 to doughty little Southport. Liverpool with only a tie marring its perfect record, beat Chester 5-1 and now holds a point advantage.

Arsenal blanked Queen's Park Rangers who had led the Southern section for a week, 3-0, before the day's biggest crowd of 146,000. Chelsea who beat Reading 4-1 and Aldershot who won 3-2 from Crystal Palace, share second place with Rangers, one point behind Arsenal.

Lovell's Athletic kept ahead in the west with a 1-0 victory over Cardiff while in the Scottish Southern League, Glasgow Rangers moved to within a point of Hibernians by beating Partick Thistle 4-1 while Hibernians were losing 7-2 to Clyde.

F.D.R. Stresses Need To Train Small Nations

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, discussing the status of small countries set free in a post-war world, said yesterday it is essential that they have a period of "trained dependence" before arriving at complete statehood.

That was the history, he said in an address on the seventh anniversary of the Commonwealth of the Philippines, of development of the Island commonwealth, and he added:

The pattern which was followed there is essentially a part and parcel of the philosophy and the ideals of the United Nations."

SPECIAL PROGRAM

Mr. Roosevelt spoke by radio on a program with President Manuel L. Quezon of the Philippine commonwealth, President Manuel Avila Camacho of Mexico and others.

The American president spoke of "our grim determination and of our supreme confidence that we shall drive the Japanese army out of the Philippines — to the last man."

Referring to the complete attainment of Philippine statehood under the Independence Act, Mr. Roosevelt said he and Quezon, in conference last week, agreed on the establishment of a joint commission to work out means of preserving the stability and security of the Philippines.

"I like to think that the history of the Philippine Islands in the last 44 years provides in miniature a real sense a pattern for the future of small nations and peoples on the world," Mr. Roosevelt said. "It is a pattern of what men of good-will look forward to in the future—a pattern of global civilization which recognizes the limitations of religion or of creed or of race.

"But we must remember that such a pattern is based on two important factors. The first is that there be a period of preparation, through the dissemination of education and the recognition and fulfillment of physical and social and economic needs. The second is that there be a period of training for ultimate independent sovereignty, through the practice of more and more self-government, beginning with the local government and passing through the various steps to complete statehood.

ESSENTIAL TRAINING

Such training for independence is essential to the stability of independence in almost every part of the world. Some peoples need more intensive training and longer years; others require far less training and a shorter period of time."

Quezon said the decision of the Filipino people to place at the disposal of the United States not only their army but "everything we had" when war came "was the seasoned fruit of a wise and fair-minded policy, of the meeting of minds and the friendly working-out of problems, that have characterized our association."

Churchill Gives Britain Message On Defence Day

LONDON, Nov. 16—(CP)—Britain recalled yesterday, as events in Africa seemed to presage an eventual return of the war to Europe, that two years ago she stood in imminent danger of invasion.

Prime Minister Churchill issued the following message to mark civil defence day:

"It is a piece of good fortune, it is symbolic that this civil defence day, witness and reminder of the great defensive effort of the people two years ago, should fall now in the midst of a great offensive success over the Nazi enemy.

"While we rejoice in the deeds of the navy, army and air force in Africa, we remember those other days when the deeds of civil defenders 'id so much to keep our will to victory invincible."

Gen. Eisenhower, British Admiral Have Close Call

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA Nov. 16—(AP)—Lt.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Admiral Sir Andrew B. Cunningham had a close call on a Flying Fortress trip to Algiers, it was disclosed yesterday.

The American commander in North Africa and the British Commander of Allied naval covering forces were on their way to the Algerian capital, it was related, when bad weather closed in as their fuel was running low.

The young pilot, Lieut. A. E. Aenchbacher, got the ship through safely and won Eisenhower's commendation.

Black Sea Fleet Heavily Shells Nazi-Held Port

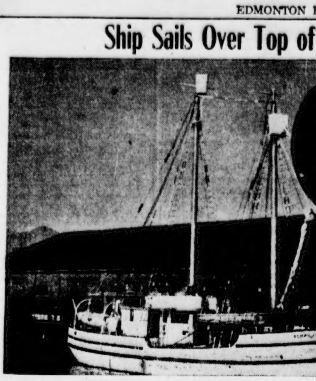
Ship Sails Over Top of World



Here is the R.C.M.P. "St. Roch", sturdy conqueror of the famed North-West Passage, which arrived in Sydney, N.S., after a two-year trip from Vancouver, B.C. The little craft is shown as she looked just before setting out on the epic trip. Inset is her skipper, Captain Henry Larsen. The "St. Roch" is the first ship to make the west-to-east passage in history. The famed Norwegian explorer, Amundsen, was in command of the only other vessel to cross the passage over the top of Canada. His trip was east-to-west, and was made in 1903-06.

VICTIMS OF SUB

Eight of Twenty-Four Survive Harrowing 38 Days on Pacific

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(AP) — "Sixteen of us had died in the lifeboat . . . Of the original 24, only eight of us remained. One day a large bird flew into the boat. We killed it and ate it raw . . . Another time a pole covered with barnacles and small shellfish floated by. We picked it clean and ate it . . ."

These excerpts from an account of 38 days spent in a shrapnel-riddled lifeboat by survivors of a merchant ship sunk in the Pacific were released yesterday by the United States navy department.

The ship, the Donerail, was sunk by a submarine in mid-Pacific en route from Suva, Fiji Islands, to Vancouver two days after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor last December 7, but the navy said that "it was not until eight lifeguard men landed at a west coast port, months after the loss of their ship, that the full facts became known."

SWEPT BY SUB

Sigfred K. Brunn, radio operator of the Donerail, whose address was unknown here, was spokesman for the group. He told how shells from the submarine killed most of the crew and sank the Donerail without a trace. Twenty-four survivors, crowded into one boat.

Many were wounded by sharpnel, some seriously; all were thinly clad, and the night was cold.

The boat was riddled with shrapnel holes. In spite of the frantic efforts of bailers, the water reached a level with the gunwales awash.

That first night four men died from wounds and exposure. After the dead men's clothing had been removed and distributed among the neediest of those remaining, their bodies were put over the side.

With the coming of daylight the sea subsided and the boat was finally raised by plugging the holes with wood, rags and wax. Most of the provisions had been washed away. All that remained were 40 tins of canned milk, a few saltwater-soaked biscuits and three small bottles of vitamin pills. The water-beaker was three-fourths full.

ESTIMATE POSITION

Brunn supplied a rough estimate of their position and a sail was rigged in the hope of reaching the Hawaiian Islands. The boat, however, was flat-bottomed, without a keel, and would sail only in the direction the wind was blowing. So, from the force and direction of the prevailing winds, it was decided to set a course for the island of Tarawa, 2,000 miles to the southwest.

There was almost always a stiff wind, and the seas were heavy. The men suffered most at night, when the cold penetrated their soaked clothing. During the next 10 days, seven of the more severely wounded died.

On the 14th day the captain was lost overboard. He was taking his turn at the tiller, a frail makeshift affair, when it broke as he leaned on it and he was thrown into the sea. They threw him a life-jacket, which he reached, and an effort was made to bring the boat about but he was too far back, the wind and sea were too strong.

SEVERAL MORE DIE

During the next 14 days several more men died from wounds, exposure and starvation.

After 30 days, the only food left was a little milk and the spoiled biscuits. Occasionally they caught flying fish, and once a large bird flew into the boat. Of the original 24, only eight remained. One man went out of his mind, but he was not violent and was no problem in the boat.

On the 38th day, the weak voice of the lookout raised a joyful cry. On the horizon there rose a dim, misty shape which proved not to be a cloud or a mirage.

The boat was blown swiftly closer to the island, but it became apparent that strong currents beset the shore and it would be impossible to make land without rowing. The exhausted men could scarcely lift the heavy oars, but their efforts were sighted by natives and 10 canoes put out to meet them and guide them to a landing.

From the island, the navy did not identify the men finally made a rendezvous with a rescue ship after careful questioning at length reached United States soil.

Bishops Cite Essentials of Lasting Peace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(AP) —The Roman Catholic archbishops and bishops of the United States said in a statment yesterday that "In the post-war world, the profit element of industry and commerce must be made subservient to the common good of communities and nations if we are to have a lasting peace."

The members of the heirarchy drafted the statement during a two-day session here. They declared that "in the discharge of our pastoral responsibility, we are grave!; concerned about the world peace of tomorrow."

NARROW VISION

"Secularism cannot write a real and lasting peace," the statement said. "Its narrow vision does not encompass the whole man, it cannot evaluate the spirituality of the human sole and the supreme good of all mankind.

"Exploitation cannot write a real and lasting peace. Where greedy might and selfish experiency are made the substitutes of justice there can be no securely ordered world.

"Totalitarianism, whether Nazi, Communist or Fascist, cannot write a real and lasting peace. The state that usurps total powers, by that very fact, becomes a despot to its own people and a menace to the family of nations.

"The spirit of Christianity can write a real and lasting peace in justice and charity to all nations, even to those not Christian.'

F. D. R. GUARANTEES

The bishops said President Roosevelt "has given solemn assurance that the United States has no designs of permanent conquest or sordid interest," but has guaranteed "to countries under temporary occupation as well as to our own the right to live in security and peace."

6 Firemen Killed As Wall Collapses In Boston Blaze

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Collapse of the flame-weakened brick wall and the slate roof of a four-storey building yesterday fatally injured six firemen and temporarily trapped dozens of others.

Reported dug more than 200 from the century-old East Boston Lyceum Hall's ruins and sent them to hospitals. Almost a dozen were in serious condition.

All the men who had answered the blaze's five alarms were believed accounted for when a fifth body was uncovered by rescue squads still toiling, under flood lights, after 18 hours after the wall crumbled. Three wrecking cranes had been pressed into service to clear the debris.

Ontario Soon To Commence Survey For Power Line

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Nov. 16.—(CP)—The survey for a power transmission line from Port Arthur, Ont., to the steep rock iron property, a distance of 125 miles, will start within the next few days, Premier Gordon D. Conant of Ontario, Saturday night told the Canadian Club here.

He added that the survey party was being organized and the survey would be completed in about a month and a half. Mr. Conant said he intended to visit the property before returning to the east "to obtain information at first hand which will enable me the better to deal with the many problems that are involving the Ontario government or the hydro-electric power commission of Ontario as may arise from time to time."

89 Allied Ships Claimed Crippled Off North Africa

Australia's Fate Seen in Solomons

Absenteeism Still Factor In War Plants

By JACK WILLIAMS

OTTAWA, Nov. 16. — (CP) — Canadian war workers who take an occasional day off on some trivial excuse are not as numerous as they used to be but are still a factor in limiting war production, National Selective Service officials said yesterday.

Absenteeism is receiving close study by Selective Service officials but there is no indication there will be any deviation from the present policy of enlisting voluntary cooperation from employees to cut down lost time.

One of the best records so far has been reported by a Toronto plant which cut absenteeism from 14 per cent to 2.9 per cent, including workers who are away with permission because of illness or other legitimate reasons.

Before the whole absenteeism picture can be clearly viewed, officials said, it will be necessary to introduce a uniform recording system.

Elliott M. Little, director of National Selective Service, has stuck to a theory that the best solution to absenteeism, as to most employee-relationship production problems, is sound employee-employer relationships based on well-organized production committees or plant councils. Selective Service spokesmen said the conditions existing in plants which have shown the most improvement lend support to this belief.

In Great Britain penalties are provided for workers who continually stay away from work without a satisfactory reason. There has not yet been any official indication that this policy is likely to be adopted in Canada.

The approach in Canada has so far been based on voluntary cooperation and as long as conditions continue to improve it is considered unlikely this policy will be abandoned.

47,000 In Britain Killed By Raids

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Herbert Morrison, minister of home defence, said last night 47,000 people have been killed in air raids on Britain since the war began, 56,000 have been injured, and 2,750,000 houses had been destroyed or damaged.

In a Civil Defence Day talk broadcast over the BBC he paid tribute to the "indomitable resistance" of civilians, and said history will record them as the "spearhead of humanity on the forward march."

Londoners, he said, stood up to the blitz for 57 nights "but when the enemy had done its worst, they and their country were still carrying on unbeaten, full of work and fight."

Six Firemen Die In Boston Blaze

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—In one of the greatest toils taken by a Boston fire since the turn of the century, six firemen are dead and two score others are in hospital today after being pulled from the debris of old Armor Hall in Maverick Square, East Boston.

Fire Chief Samuel Pope said the fire started in grease on the kitchen stove of a restaurant Sunday morning. He estimated damage to the four-storey structure at $45,000. In addition, a $20,000 aerial ladder truck was crushed when a wall of the building collapsed.

Firemen apparently had it under control and a number of them had entered the building to quell the remaining flames when a wall on the street side collapsed without warning, causing the death of the six firemen and temporarily trapping others.

It was hours before some of the dead, trapped under fallen beams, were removed. Three giant cranes aided in lifting away the debris.

DISCUSS RESOLUTIONS

Protest Is Filed on Closing Vermilion Oil Field

Disruption of Supply Said "National Disgrace". By C.C.F. Meeting Here

Vigorous protest against the lack of government action which has permitted an important Alberta oil field to be closed down for more than two weeks because of a dispute about the price at which processed oil is sold, was expressed in a resolution passed by the Executive of the Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation party at a meeting held during the week-end.

The situation, stated a spokesman of the party, clearly calls for government action and because the national resources of the province are under control of the provincial government the C.C.F. believes that the provincial government should act in this matter.

The C.C.F., continued the spokesman, "believes that the closing down of one of the most important oil fields in the country over a price dispute in this fourth year of the war is nothing short of a national disgrace."

"From the standpoint of use to the nation," he said, "at this time when oil is so desperately needed, the Vermilion field might just as well be in enemy hands."

The stoppage of production in this field followed the claim by a processing company operating in the field that it would not make any money out of the price being paid for the processed oil by the Canadian National Railway. The railway refused to pay more to the company which immediately closed its plant to force payment of a higher price.

MORE PENSIONS

Extension of the increase rate of old age pensions to Albertans residing outside the province was advocated in another resolution passed by the C.C.F. executive, and Elmer E. Roper, M.L.A., for Edmonton, the C.C.F. representative in the provincial legislature, was instructed to raise this question at the next session of the legislature. The party's executive claims that Alberta's old age pensioners residing outside the province should not be discriminated against.

The executive endorsed also the suggestion by Mr. Roper that increased Mothers' Allowances be paid, if necessary, through the issuance of special warrants.

AN INVESTIGATION

The C.C.F. executive believes that there should be an immediate investigation of the amounts paid under the Mothers' Allowance act in the various municipalities, as reports to the C.C.F. executive offices reveal a great variation in the amounts paid. "There is plenty of evidence of a 'hand-holier' attitude toward recipients of the allowance and of a 'passing the buck' between municipal secretaries and the government department administering the act."

Side - Lights From Blizzard

In the general trek down First Street, Indian style of course, a group of older men, probably veterans of the First Great War, struck up "Tipperrary" and "Pack Up Your Troubles." The tunes died out after a few blocks, because plowing and puffing and singing just didn't mix.

* * *

A sailor lad was right in there pitching. He trudged on with the general mob, an hour or so late, and in reply to a friend's "What, You out," he laughed and said, "Sure Joe! I got a war to win."

* * *

One young Edmonton Miss, stuck nearly hip high in a drift, was assisted out (it was so embarrassing) by a tiny 10-year-old laddie.

* * *

A hale and hearty Scotchman, shovelling snow from a downtown sidewalk, yelled to a friend, "It's so stubborn it won't even shovel."

* * *

Within the warmth of a city hotel, one of the clerks was asked if he wouldn't like to hunt chickens. He laughed and replied that chickens and ducks nearly snow-drifted him Sunday night, so he thought he'd lay off the wee birds for a while.

* * *

One truck plowing its way north on the South Side main street towards the high level bridge, stopped repeatedly for passengers who were forcing their way through snowdrifts on foot, struggling to get to work over town. Chill snow flurries were no picnic for those trying to walk across the high level bridge at the same time. Dignified business men and warmly bundled stenographers acted promptly upon the cheery invitation of "Hop on," and were glad to sit down on the floor boards to catch their breath.

Missing Man Found By Game Hunters

Missing since March of 1940, the body of Edward Velkjar was found, Friday, by two big-game hunters 12 miles west of Alver Flats. The man was believed to be a resident of that district.

Since the disappearance of Mr. Velkjar from a hunting cabin, an unsuccessful search has been carried out. The body was identified by his son through a .22 rifle and a brass compass found with him. Relatives are satisfied that he died from exposure.

Investigation was carried out by Constable Paley of the Breton detachment, R.C.M.P., and Dr. C. B. Kidd, coroner at Leduc, was notified. It is believed that an inquest will be necessary.

Woman Is Killed In Auto Crash

One death resulted when two cars crashed head-on Sunday evening, in a blinding snowstorm, according to R.C.M.P. reports. The accident occurred west of Sylvan Lake near Benalto.

Cars driven by Fritz Kinna and Eli Murto collided at dusk during the storm. Passengers in Mr. Kinna's automobile were his wife, who was injured fatally, and his 25-year-old son. Mr. Kinna suffered concussion, and Mrs. Kinna received fractures at the base of the skull. She died after reaching the Eckville hospital.

Edmonton Sailor, Home on Leave, Describes "Kill" of Enemy Sub

Detects U-Boats

AB. Robert Wallis, R.C.N. now visiting his Edmonton home on leave, who experienced the satisfactory thrill of knowing his work led to the destruction of an enemy submarine in the North Atlantic. He serves as an operator of the ship's submarine detecting device.

Canada's young but powerful navy is playing a part in this war at the present time far beyond what the average Canadian has any idea of. Able Seaman Robert Wallis, S.D., said on his arrival home on his first leave since July, 1940.

AB. Wallis, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wallis of 9453 100A avenue, has been serving for some time on H.M.C.S. Skeena, in the intricate submarine detection department.

SOUVENIR FROM SUB.

The young sailor has as a treasured souvenil a piece of wood from a submarine destroyed by a Canadian warship on which he was serving.

"We caught the U-boat on the surface at 5:45 a.m. and immediately went into action". AB. Wallis told a Bulletin reporter.

"We went into action at once and the submarine crash-dived," he continued.

"We kept right after the sub, however, and in all tossed over 62 depth charges, only halting at 10:30 a.m. when wreckage and oil came to the surface, proving that we had destroyed the underseas boat. Some of our depth charges were set to explode at 450 and 750 feet below the surface. We put bits of the submarine hull in sealed containers as proof of her detruction for naval officials ashore," AB. Wallis said.

The Canadian ship did not rescue any of the German submarine crew.

AB. Wallis has another highly interesting souvenir. It is a four-page newspaper taken from a German sailor, captured with the supply ship accompanying the German Battleship Bismark, sunk by British warships and naval aircraft in the northern Atlantic in May of 1941.

PRINTED IN FRANCE

The paper was apparently printed in northern France and was issued to sailors of the German navy and merchant marine.

In a mass of type in the issue of April 11, 1941, just a few short weeks before the Bismark met her doom.

In true Prussian fatefulness the biggest heading on page 1, reads: "Gegen Engeland," or "Against England."

There is nothing of a very sensational character in the paper, however. Most of the reading matter consists of DNB official German news agency dispatches, concerning the Nazi campaign in the Balkans and the invasion of Greece, in progress at the time.

AB. Wallis served on the Canadien Corvette Algoma in addition to the Destroyer Skeena and has made trips across the Atlantic on convoy service. He has visited Iceland on many occasions.

SERVED ON COAST

For a time after enlisting in the navy he served on the west coast of Canada.

Asked about his job as submarine detector Wallis smiled and stated:

"I'd like to tell you about that but it is highly secretive. But our sub detectors are really getting results."

Edmonton looks mighty sweet again to the young sailor.

Getting Around

with Jack DeLong

New York City discovers Alberta. That would be an appropriate heading on the story of a little meeting in an Edmonton hotel Saturday evening. Present were Dan Campbell, director of publicity for Alberta, H. Brock Smith, merchandise manager of the Hudson's Bay Co. store here, Wendell Fread, personnel manager of Northwest Airlines Ltd., Thomas Wolf, correspondent for NEA news services, and the conductor of this column.

Mr. Wolf is from New York City, and is on his way north to cover the ceremony opening the Alaska Highway on the Alaska-Yukon boundary, scheduled for Friday of this week.

Mr. Wolf came to Edmonton with an open mind.

* * *

He admitted his "education" concerning Alberta was quite sketchy. Before the evening was very far advanced he admitted he had revised the best tutors possible to secure.

Mr. Wolf's "education" on Alberta started out with a detailed scientific definition of the chinook. The chinook, Tutor Campbell pointed out, is the chief reason why Alberta's climate is so much more pleasant during the winter months than that of New York City.

Chinooks have wrought the miracle of the famed tropical valley in northern B.C. and permit growing of tomatoes and fruits away up near the Arctic circle, Correspondent Wolf was told. Mr. Campbell was particular to point out that although Calgary gets more chinooks than Edmonton, the Pacific zephyrs that warm the wintry air here are of a more healthful type, such as the chinook we are at present enjoying.

Then Mr. Wolf learned about the wonders of the Fort McMurray area oil sands, where there is sufficient oil to last the whole wide world for 400 years. The mineral deposits in the great northern hinterland were discussed. Then Edmonton's position as a continental LaGuardia Field along the leading skyway route connecting North America and Asia, was emphasized.

* * *

"The Alaska Highway and the air routes will mean to Edmonton what the coming of the C.P.R. meant to Winnipeg," Mr. Campbell summed up.

Brock Smith supplied a few more facts and figures about Edmonton and the north. Then Mr. Wolf took over and it was the turn of Mr. Campbell and Mr. Smith to be interviewed. Mr. Wolf clearly demonstrated why he is such an important roving assignments for the NEA service. NEA features are carried exclusively by The Bulletin in Edmonton.

Mr. Campbell had to really prove his story, which he did to the complete satisfaction of Mr. Wolf.

And if Edmontonians are inclined to suffer from an inferiority complex in the presence of people from some of the world's largest metropolitan centres, they may recall these words of Mr. Wolf, uttered in a kind of sincere wonderment:

"If I had been knocked on the head in New York City a couple of days ago and had just come to here I would have thought I was still in New York City. You have all the things we have in New York, street cars, automobiles, radios, juke boxes and even hamburger emporiums.

* * *

"An you have beautiful girls here, too."

What's the difference between Edmonton and New York?

Delton Church Scouts Enjoy Gala Program

Last Friday was a gala night at the Delton Baptist church when the scouts of the 28th Troop entertained a large group of friends and presented awards to individual scouts and patrols.

Among the presentations were three of special interest by Vernon Pearson, the district scout commissioner. Mr. Pearson presented a silver cup to the senior first aid team of the 28th Troop in recognition of their success in the annual first aid competition.

A second presentation was made to patrol second, Philip Karpetz, in recognition of 137 hours of war services. This badge is of particular significance in that it is the first one of its kind to be won by an Alberta scout.

Mr. Pearson concluded his official duties of the evening by presenting a scoutmaster's warrant to Scoutmaster F. G. McCoy, who has had charge of the 28th Troop for the last two years.

RECEIVE EQUIPMENT

Recognition was also given by the troop to the winners of their patrol contest by a presentation of scout equipment by Assistant Scoutmaster J. Henderson, and to the trop leader, Frank Iriye, by the scoutmaster.

The concert program included flag break, O Canada, piano solos by Miss Eileen Massie, Scout Francis O'Leary and Cub Eidor Thomas; accordion selections by Ronald McNeil; violin solos by Scout Tommy Symington; a talk on scout activities by Scout Philip Karpetz; a demonstration by the cub pack; and two plays by the boys of the troop.

Troop Leader Frank Iriye acted as master of ceremonies.

The program was brought to a conclusion by a campfire sing-song, "God Save the King," lowering of the flag, scout silence and benediction by the scout chaplain, the Rev. R. C. Standerwick.

Funeral Is Held For North Skipper

The first skipper to navigate steam-powered boats between Fort McMurray and Fort Fitzgerald, and one of the outstanding riversmen in western Canada, Capt. Edward Benjamin Haight, was buried Saturday in the family plot in Mount Pleasant cemetery. Funeral services for Capt. Haight, who died Nov. 12, were held at Foster and McGarvey's funeral chapel. He was 80 years old at the time of his death.

Capt. Haight served the Hudson's Bay Company for 42 years, and was retired in 1921 with the company's long service medal.

A daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Porritt, lives at 10347 126 street, and one other daughter and three sons survive him.

Teachers Unaffected By Selective Act

School teachers do not come within the jurisdiction of the National Selective Service organization and their strike is legal as far as the service is concerned. Officials of the teachers' organization reported Monday that they had been informed to this effect by selective service officials.

Teachers' officials also declared that they had been informed the Dominion Industrial Disputes Act did not apply to the teachers.

Furthermore, it was stated by teachers' officials, that no obstacles would be placed in the way of teachers desiring to transfer to other teaching posts, but that it might be necessary to obtain permits to transfer to another vocation.

In the meantime the strike in the Vegreville school division still continues.

THE QUESTION

Do you think Hitler may strike a desperate blow at England now that the Allies are hemming him in on the south and east?

THE ANSWERS

ART FOLEY, visiting sailor: I hardly think Hitler would dare attack England now, no matter how desperate his position may become. If he failed in 1940 against a few score Spitfire pilots how could he hope to succeed now that the skies over Britain are black with both British and American planes?

* * *

W. RICHARDSON war veteran: I certainly expect Hitler to order a general aerial assault against Britain to offset his serious reverses in Africa and Russia. I think his generals are too wise to attempt an invasion though.

* * *

C. MCNIVEN, school teacher: If the Allies start striking directly at the soft Italian side of the Axis front I really believe that Hitler would order a desperate all-out attack against England in the gambler's hope of crippling Britain so seriously she would be unable to continue her offensive operations elsewhere. Actually it seems to me about the only move left open to him.

Rumor, Reality Sermon Subject Metropolitan

"Rumor or Reality" was the subject of the Rev. A. M. Thompson's sermon, Sunday morning, at Metropolitan United church, and the minister quoted an essay of Fosdick's in which religion of Jesus is contrasted with religion about Jesus.

The former, Mr. Thompson explained, speaks of religion that Jesus himself possessed, while the latter consists of things we have heard about Him.

"New religious reformations must be won by resting on experiences rather than on inherited formulas—this is one of Fosdick's conclusions. We in the twentieth century are rich in religion about Jesus. Scholarship and scientific research have told us much more about Him than men in the first century knew. Yet how little we know through personal study and reading," Mr. Thompson said.

"We know much about prayer—but how much of this knowledge is gained through praying? We call Jesus our Savior and Lord, but it is because we have found Him our own?"

Religion in order to be real must be vital. It can never be vital as long as it rests on second-hand tradition rather than first-hand experience, Mr. Thompson concluded.

Making his annual business trip to the C.P.R. offices here is Cecil G. Alton, Canadian general passenger agent for the Southern Pacific lines. Mr. Alton, who is from Vancouver, B.C., arrived in Edmonton this morning.

What Boners Did He Write?

What a slap in the face! In response to his letter he gets this cold, curt note. WHY?

Maybe HIS letter was disappointing. Maybe she tore it open very eagerly, only to find it a string of choppy, ungrammatical sentences: "I sure am busy. Haven't been to a movie yet."

So many people are careless about letter-writing, thinking it's a special art, hard to learn!

It's simple to check on errors—to write correctly "surely am," to put the subject "I" before "haven't been."

You can easily make your letters interesting by just telling little things. About your movie, say: "Hope got laughs, all right!" You are busy? Write: "Papers are on my desk in two-feet stacks!"

If you are careless about business letters, of course, you'll never get the job. Do you write: "I saw your ad in today's newspaper and have had four years experience and I could take the job right now?" Learn to be clear, correct!

Our 64-page booklet points out common grammar mistakes, helps enrich your vocabulary, suggests topics to write to friends, rules for good business letters. Gives 24 model social, business and friendly letters.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Good Letter-Writing Made Easy" to The Edmonton Bulletin, Home Service, 60 Front Street, West, Toronto, Ont. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Newlyweds Should Give Marriage Fair Trial

Girl, 17, Wants To Leave Husband Because They Are Always Quarreling; She Should Study Her Husband

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been married almost three months and find that I have made a big mistake. My husband and I do not get along at all. We never seem to agree on any subject. He says all of my ideas are silly. We are always quarreling, and in some of these disputes he has gotten so angry that he has beaten me up.

I have been thinking of leaving him because if he knocks me around now when I am practically a bride, I think it will always be that way with him. I am not a person who can be bossed, and when anybody tells me that I have to do a thing I see red. Despite all this, I love my husband and I am wondering, if I left him for a while, whether he wouldn't come to his senses. He is 29, while I am only 17. What do you think I had best do? MRS. V.

Answer: Three months isn't a very long time to give marriage a trial. If you started in any sort of an enterprise, you wouldn't expect to make a great success of it that soon. A young doctor doesn't expect patients to come crowding into his office as soon as he hangs out his shingle. A grocer doesn't expect to have a big trade the minute he opens his door for customers. If you were to get a job as stenographer, or a waitress, or a saleswoman, you would expect to have to learn how to adapt yourself to the ways of the office, or the store, and how to take dictation, or learn how to sell goods.

But when you get married you expect everything to move smoothly from the very beginning and for it to be a wonderful success, although you don't know the slightest thing about it. Yet wifehood is the most complicated job on earth and to make a go of that a woman has to have knowledge of a dozen basic things. To begin with, she has to be a good cook and a careful buyer, for, as a general thing, her husband is just starting out in business and is making a small salary that has to be spread over many needs.

FIND HIS TASTES, HABITS

Then she has to study her husband and find out his tastes and habits and cater to them. She has to learn how to adjust herself to her husband and how to handle him with tact, and to walk high, wide and handsome around his peculiarities and prejudices.

No girl can learn all these things in three months. It takes years and years of patient study and trying to get even a smattering of them. But if she loves her husband enough to stick to him and stick to her job, she can make a success of it. Many a marriage that got off to a bad start, and time and time again threatened to go on the rocks, has been turned into a glorious success.

Your principal trouble is that you married too young. No girl of 17 has the knowledge of life and men and the self-control to know how to handle a husband and make a success of marriage. If her marriage turns out happily, it is because she has had the luck to get a husband who is old enough and wise enough and who loves her enough to hold the marriage steady, while she is learning how to be a good wife. And you do not seem fortunate enough to have gotten that kind of a husband.

I cannot advise any woman to continue to live with a man who beats her. That is up to her. But I cannot see that you will help matters by leaving yours for a while, for I should judge that the way he treats you indicates that he is trying to drive you away and get some excuse for divorcing you.

At 17 you have a long expectation of life. It is a doleful prospect to look forward to with a husband with whom you continually quarrel and who gives you a black eye when you disagree with him.

SEEKS FREEDOM

DEAR MISS DIX: I have only been married a year, but my husband has been in the army all the time. As long as he could be near me we were very happy, but now that he has been sent far away he has lost his love for me and wants a divorce. I haven't heard from him for over a month and know that if he wanted to write he could do so. He feels that he will be away a long time and by being married we can't have a good time. But I don't feel that way. I am willing to wait for him for many years if I have to. But I am afraid that if he keeps writing he wants me no longer the love I have for him will die.

He says we both could have a better time if we were not married. What would you suggest for me to do?

A LONELY WIFE.

ANSWER: Well, being married doesn't seem to have cramped his style or interfered with his stepping out with the girls wherever he may be. But, inasmuch as you say you still love him, why don't you tell him to let the divorce matter ride for the present and that you will discuss the matter with him when he comes home?

That probably will do him a kindness he doesn't deserve and save him from making another war marriage he will regret as soon as his regiment is moved to some other spot, and he is separated from his second wife and brought into association with a new charmer. Possibly by the time he gets back you will have become a novelty to him and he will fall in love with you all over again. Sailors and soldiers seem to have an abnormal capacity for swapping sweethearts.

Your letter is one of thousands I have received from girls who fell in love, or thought they did, with some good-looking, upstanding soldier boy and rushed into a hasty marriage with him, only to have their romance wrecked before it had time to jell. Four in a month, a week, or a day, as the case might be, the bridegroom was snatched away and sent to some point of combat. And before the bride had had time to write half a dozen sobbing letters she got one from her short-time husband, saying he had fallen in love with another and wanted a divorce.

The moral is that the girl should wait to marry until Johnny comes marching home and it ready to stay put.

GETS ON NERVES

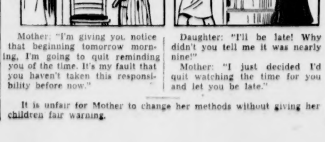
DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am engaged to be married to a man who is always whistling and singing, and it is getting on my nerves so much I don't know how I can stand it any longer. He is continually humming the same old tune from morning till night, even while he is waiting on customers. Sometimes I think I will scream, but nothing stops him. What should I do?

PUZZLED.

Answer: Tell him to shut up, or else call the wedding off. I can imagine no fault that a husband could possibly have that would be harder to live with than his eternally making a noise he mistook for music. A man with the whistling habit should pick out a stone-deaf woman for a wife.

Points For Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE



Mother: "I'm giving you notice that beginning tomorrow morning, I'm going to quit reminding you of the time. It's my fault that you haven't taken this responsibility before now."

Daughter: "I'll be late! Why didn't you tell me it was nearly nine!"

Mother: "I just decided I'd quit watching the time for you and let you be late."

It is unfair for Mother to change her methods without giving her children fair warning.

Minute Make-Ups

11-16

Keep your lips for the Army! Soldiers by the hundreds are sending lipstick kits to the girls back home with the message: "Keep your Lips For Me!" Practice your lipstick technique while you're true so that you look your loveliest when he gets that sudden furlough. Check your Lip Service. Apply lipstick in three outline strokes: two for upper lip, one sweeping stroke for the lower. Fill in outline with up and down strokes. Blot on a tissue so that the effect is smooth and stands "inspection!"

McCoy Health Service

If it were not for the diseases commonly found in women, many doctors would have to look for some other method of earning a living. Such illnesses are the cause of much nervousness, tiredness, and misery; however, they are nearly all preventable. There is no reason why women should suffer from a dragging-down feeling in the back, pain through the lower abdomen, headaches, irritability, weakness or an inability to stand very long. Most of these symptoms arise from wrong care and insufficient knowledge. The effect of such troubles is not only to steal the health, but to interfere with happiness because of premature ageing. Too often such distressing orders are endured without being understood and with no treatment used to overcome them. It is not sensible to take a chance of losing health and youth when such ailments are often readily corrected.

There is no reason for a woman to suffer from weakness or continual tiredness. When normal health is enjoyed, the woman has health equal to that of a man and is able to do heavy work with no bad after-effects. A friend who has just returned from Russia tells me that he took a trip on a Russian boat and that half of the boat crew were women, working right alongside of the men.

Most women look forward with fear to the period between forty and fifty. There is no need for the headaches, the hot flashes, the nervousness and irritability which so often accompany what should be the best years in life. I have known many women of forty and fifty who learned to take care of themselves and who were charming, attractive, vigorous and full of life. I believe the menstrual age plays a most important part in retaining youthfulness throughout life. One should learn to look forward with anticipation and to enjoy every moment of the present day, rather than spending time looking backward with regret. From middle age onward may be the richest part of life.

If the women who feel themselves declining would give their bodies a thorough diet-ic housecleaning and develop a vigorous physical culture regimen and maintain a keen, clear mental attitude, they would start life all over again with a renewed interest and with the added value of all of the educating experiences which have ripened them during the early years. There may seem to be a natural tendency for stagnation but this must not be permitted. The circulation must be speeded up with suitable exercise and the patient must drink plenty of water and use a diet rich in food minerals and vitamins, furnishing a reasonable amount of protein and low in starches and sugars. It is often helpful just to cut down on the heavy foods you have been using and learn to eat lightly and in a common sense way.

Healthful games are also helpful in promoting a keen interest in life. Golfing, swimming, or hiking are all splendid for the middle aged woman. Don't neglect these healthful amusements early in life but if you have done so, make the rest of your life worthwhile with some wholesome physical and mental pleasure.

All questions regarding Health and Diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, 1151 West 6th St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

With good reason is the term "well-balanced" frequently used in connection with diets. All foods, whatever, their component parts or their individual caloric benefits, are needed in the diet. When a person asks, "Is that a good food?" she ignores the fact that all foods are good for something. It must be determined just what that something is.

Mrs. J. B. feels that she needs an opinion about a lot of things connected with her pregnancy. "My doctor is so busy I hate to bother him with these trivialities, yet I am completely at sea.

"Will the eating of lots of fruit help me to have an easier delivery? The fruits stressed were oranges and lemons. They are acid, are they not?

"I am in my seventh month," she continues, "and so far I have had no vitemin D. My friends have taken this. Could I take it on my own?

"Will you tell me what to take with me to the hospital?"

Fruits contain citric acid, but after consumption they burn to an alkaline ash and so contribute to the alkalinity, not the acidity of the body. They are excellent sources of vitamin C, which all of us must have, and they are relatively low in calories. Therefore they are stressed in reducing diets. But, they are not to be used to that end. You defeat the purpose for which you are protecting the baby for nine months and that is to give it a fine, healthy body. That means adequate nourishment for you so that baby will be well padded with fat and able to withstand the shock of birth and this new world into which he is thrust. You deprive your own body of needed nourishment when you diet, since nature has arranged wisely that baby will get his if possible, even at the expense of the mother.

Ask your doctor if you should take vitamin D now. He may have decided that you did not need it during the summer months.

A mother takes to the hospital, ordinarily, an assortment of nightgowns, some bed jackets for use when she has visiting friends, all of her toilet articles, a dressing gown and slippers and the underwear, shoes, and outer garments she will wear home.

Your own hospital will probably dress the baby while it is there and you will use his or her own things only on the day you take him home. Bring diapers, undervest and nightgown and a couple of blankets and it's quite cold, the bassinet itself. A hot-water bag at the foot of it will keep baby nice and warm while you are making the journey.

Our leaflet, "Pre-natal Care," includes much of interest to the prospective mother. It may be had by sending a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed and it's quite cold, envelope and it's quite cold, request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

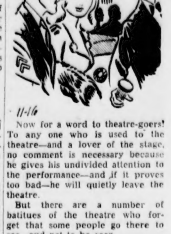
Easy Medallions Make Chair Set

By ALICE BROOKS

Debunker

Because the earth is a globe, it is impossible to show proper relationships of continents, oceans, and other parts of the earth on flat maps. Such maps distort whole areas. The commonest map is the Mercator projection map, but this shows Greenland to be larger than the United States, and the shortest distance from the Panama Canal to Tokio as passing through Hawaii. Other types of projection used for maps correct some of these distortions, but retain others. The orange-peel type of map, called Goode's projection, makes relative distances correct, but the map has many gaps in it, and it is hard to follow. If you think it is easy to make a flat map of the earth, try taking the paper map off the outside of a globe and laying it flat.

What To Do



11-16

Now for a word to theatre-goers! To any one who is used to the theatre—and a lover of the stage, no comment is necessary because he gives his undivided attention to the performance—and if it proves too bad—he will quietly leave the theatre.

But there are a number of baltiues of the theatre who forget that some people go there to see—and not to be seen.

The first duty of a theatregoer is to be on time. This is courteous to the actors as well as to other patrons. His second duty is to be quiet—avoid rattling papers, whispering and coughing.

Between acts men and women may leave their seats—but they should do it with the least possible disturbance to others.

Boy, 12, Among Rescued Japs

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A boy of 12 was among a group of 36 Japanese officers and men rescued by a United States ship which recently sank two enemy patrol vessels off the Ellice Islands in the southwest Pacific, the United States Navy announced today. The navy said most of the prisoners were young, 17 and 18 years old. One prisoner bragged of the Americans to shoot him or give him poison, but was co-operative when given medical aid.

Newsman Caught In Tobruk Raid Safe In Italy

BERNE, Nov. 16—(AP) — The first direct word of the safety and well-being of Larry Allen came Saturday in a post card from the Associated Press correspondent who has been a prisoner of the Axis since a British destroyer was sunk during a commando raid on Tobruk in mid-September.

The card, to the International Red Cross at Geneva, bore no date and gave no clue to his whereabouts.

It said only he is "All right, a war prisoner of the Italians, well treated and expect soon to be transferred to a prisoners' camp."

Public Warned On Writing To War Prisoners

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—The Defence Affairs department said that information of value to the enemy has been found in letters mailed in Canada to German-held prisoners of war, demonstrating that "the Canadian public stands in need of education to what news is permissable to the men taken at Dieppe."

Anything which would help the enemy has been removed from letters to Canadian prisoners of war, the department said, but this has entailed returning some letters to the senders and a great deal of work in making deletions in others.

Picture postcards or other pictorial matters may not be sent to prisoners — aside from snapshots and unmounted photographs of a purely personal nature. Letters may not include "information of any kind which might be useful to the enemy" or "reference to any naval, military, aerial, economic or political matter."

WHAT MAY BE SENT

The departmental statement listed what may be sent to prisoners of war as follows:

1—Letters and postcards clearly written or types; letters must not exceed two sides of one sheet of notepaper;

2 — Snapshots and unmounted photographs of a personal nature;

3—Once every three months a "personal" parcel from the official next of kin;

4—Books, music, packs of cards, games and sports equipment; orders should be placed with licensed companies for these articles;

5—Newspapers and periodicals—to prisoners of war in neutral countries but not to prisoners of war in enemy countries;

6 — Tobacco and cigarettes, through tobacco companies who hold a special permit;

7—Invalid comforts, medicines and special remedies to men known to be in hospital.

The department said the following articles may be included in parcels to prisoners of war in enemy hands:

Blankets, brilliantine in tins, brushes of all kinds, button-cleaning outfits (solid, not liquid polish), chocolate bars, cigarette rolling machines but not cigarettes or cigarette papers, clothing (including underwear, civilian or service shorts, any footwear, knitted comforts, or uniform);

Colored silks and cottons, plain linen or drill, dyes for embroidering; dentifrice (solid or powder but not in tubes); picture frames with tab or unbreakable glass, kit bags, knitting needles and wool; mending kits containing thimble, needles, thread, etc.; pencils, pipes and tobacco pouch, safety razors and blades, safety tin openers, shoe polish (solid, not liquid or in tubes), small musical instruments, soap of all kinds, towels, face cloths and sponges.

ARTICLES BANNED

But the following are not to be enclosed in any parcel:

Cigaret papers or paper cigar or cigaret holders, fountain pens, pens and ink, telegraphing and telephonic materials, radios and radio materials, luggage,, weapons (including also large pocket knives and scissors, nail scissors excepted), written communications (letters must be sent separately), printed matter, pictorial illustrations and mounted photographs. money, stamps, stationery and playing cards.

Articles in tubes, tins and other receptacles which cannot easily be opened for inspection, spirits or solidified spirit for cooking stoves, matches or any other inflammable material, food, tobacco, cigarets, photographic apparatus, sextants, field glasses, compasses, electric torches, other instruments of use for naval and military purposes; complete suits, colored or grey flannel trousers, sports coats or blazers, mackintoshes or any kind of overcoat (but these items of clothing may be sent to civilians.)

Dried Fruits Pact Reached By 3 Nations

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—The external affairs department announced today an agreement has been reached by Canada, the United Kingdom and the United States on the movement of dried fruits, during the 1942-43 marketing season, so as to meet the full requirements of the armed services and give equitable treatment to civilians.

The agreement was to be announced simultaneously by the combined food board at Washington.

"In the interests of an orderly distribution of supplies, it was agreed that Canada's supply of all dried fruit from the United States, except figs, would be handled through the appropriate procurement agencies of the United States and Canadian governments, the food board statement said.

FIGS NOT CONTROLLED

"These agencies will operate within the quantities of the various dried fruits agreed upon in the committee. Figs, however, are not under government control in the United States, and the trade in this commodity will be handled privately.

"Since Canadian brokers had already contracted for a quantity of figs greatly in excess of the amount considered essential for the Canadian consumption in the light of over-all dried fruit supplies and requirements, the Canadian government has found it necessary to limit the importation of American figs to quantity of 1,500 short tons."

The food board at Washington said arrangements have been agreed upon for an equitable allocation to the various United Nations of the world supplies of all dried fruits, taking into consideration availability and shipping. The actual allocations would be made as the crops are harvested, and the supplies are known in the various producing regions of the northern and southern hemispheres.

ESTABLISH NEEDS

"In arriving at this agreement, the finance and supply committee of the combined food board investigated the needs of the armed services and civilians of the various United Nations, and established priority and non-priority requirements," the statement said.

"The principle of equitable treatment for each of the nations concerned, as between their priority and non-priority needs, was used as the basis for the committee's allocation. Provision is made in the allocation plan that to meet the full requirements of the armed services of the United Nations, and also for equitable treatment of civilians in the United States, Canada, and other United Nations in the western hemisphere.

"The allocations for the United Kingdom take into account the very limited supplies of fresh and canned fruit available to them. Supplies to the United Kingdom will be procured and exported under the lease-lend program."

Ottawa Bus Ride Goes Into Effect

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP)—A federal order limiting transportation by bus to 50 miles one way or 100 miles return, went into effect today.

The regulations provide that no person without written general or specific approval of Transit Controller G. R. Gray, is allowed to supply or sell any ticket for transportation by bus or convoy any passenger in one continuous journey of greater distance than 50 miles one way or 100 miles return.

Mr. Gray said the order would not apply where bus travel is the only means of transportation. In those areas, bus lines will be left intact. The purpose of the new rule is to do away with travel duplication, he explained.

The transit controller said that special travel permits might be given war workers, who work in plants more than 50 miles from their homes to enable them to visit their families at week-ends.

American, Jap Warships Spar Off Solomons

battle east of the Solomons, claimed today the Japanese sank one battleship, two aircraft carriers identified as the U.S.S. Enterprise and Hornet, another large-type aircraft carrier, three cruisers and one destroyer.

A United States navy communique Oct. 26 reported the United States destroyer Porter was sunk by enemy action; one United States aircraft carrier was severely damaged and other United States vessels reported lesser damage.

On Oct. 31 the navy announced the carrier, which was not identified, was destroyed after she had been heavily damaged by Japanese bombers and torpedo planes.

Except for the loss of the carrier and the destroyer, there has been no United States or other Allied announcements to confirm the Japanese claim.

In addition to the vessels claimed sunk, the Japanese asserted that three identified warships and three destroyers were heavily damaged.

The Japanese also claimed that "more than 55 enemy planes were shot down in combat over enemy positions; 25 enemy planes shot down in air combat and by our fleet gunfire over Japanese positions. Total number of planes lost exceeded 200, including those lost with the sinking aircraft carriers.

In the new claim there was no mention of Japanese casualties.

The United States navy department announcement of Oct. 26 said two Japanese carriers, two heavy cruisers and one light cruiser were damaged.

General Weygand Is Rumored Under Arrest In Vichy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(AP)— The BBC broadcast to France yesterday an unconfirmed report that Gen. Maxime Weygand, the French commander in North Africa who was believed to have returned to Vichy, had been arrested by Nazi order.

The French language broadcast from the BBC, heard here by the federal communications commission's monitoring service, said:—

"We learn from usually reliable sources that General Weygand was arrested on orders of the Germans. We have no confirmation of this news."

Fighting French Disclaim Part In Africa Pact

Committee announced that they are taking no part whatsoever in nor assuming any responsibilities for negotiations in progress in North Africa with representatives from Vichy."

The arrival of Flandin and Pucheu in North Africa was announced by Fighting French sources here.

What part these leaders would play in the new North African French set-up was not certain.

PAID HITLER TRIBUTE

Flandin was closely identified in the pre-war era with policies of appeasement and closer Franco-German relations. He attracted wide attention when he sent a telegram to Adolf Hitler after the Munich conference, paying tribute to the Nazi leader's peaceful solution of the European crisis.

Hitler at that time replied that he had followed Flandin's efforts in the same direction "with sincere interest."

Pucheu had an equally long record of close collaboration with Germany, being the first French industrialist in line up his plants for German war production after the Franco-German armistice.

ATTRACTED BY DARLAN

For years before the war he had represented the French steel cartel in the Ruhr in negotiations with the German steel interests. He served as minister of interior under Darlan, but was dropped when Pierre Laval returned to power. It seemed likely that he was attracted to North Africa because of Darlan's participation in the new set-up.

Simultaneously with the latest North African political development, Gen. Charles DeGaulle conferred with Prime Minister Winston Churchill, presumably on the African developments which the Fighting French organization has viewed with little pleasure.

The French military organization in North Africa, however, was in the hands of a leader with whom the Fighting French are in full agreement — the war hero, Gen. Henry Giraud.

Giraud's appointment by Admiral the Francois Darlan, former commander of all French armed forces under the Vichy regime, apparently was the last straw for Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, Vichy chief of government, who announced, according to Havas, French news agency, that Darlan had been deprived of all his functions, including his military command.

The statement was broadcast to Frenchmen throughout the empire. Petain was quoted as asserting that Darlan, by greeting to the appointment of Giraud, committed grave French colonial forces resisting the Axis, had "placed himself outside the French national community."

BRITONS TO ASSIST

British diplomatic and political advisers have arrived in North Africa, it was learned here, to assist in clarifying political questions arising from the complicated status of the Vichy regime, now openly under Axis domination, and the French in North Africa who have agreed to fight the Axis.

What Darlan's final status would be remained unclear. When the Americans announced that they had come to save North Africa and asked Vichy's leaders to join them they were put in a difficult position when Darlan appeared in Algeria, for he is popular with the Fighting French Forces of Gen. Charles De Gaulle.

Petain's banishment of Darlan was confirmed in broadcast terms. The marshal accused Darlan of insinuations which made him appear "contemptible."

"Admiral Darlan dared to assert in his declaration that I am faced with the impossibility of making known my thoughts to the French people and alleges he is acting in my name," Petain's statement said.

"NOT UNDER COMPULSION"

"I am not a man to give way to compulsion. To insinuate the contrary is to make me appear contemptible.

"At the very moment Africa was attacked I empowered Admiral Darlan with the defence of French sovereignty, of which I am the trustee. As soon as the first engagement took place the admiral did not hesitate to enter into relations with the attacking powers.

"By giving a premature order to cease hostilities he disorganized resistance and disintegrated the morale of the troops."

Petain asserted that Darlan disregarded the marshal's order to resist "under the mere pretext that he was preventing the rebel chief of felon, Gen. Giraud, from usurping command of the troops."

"Today," Petain continued, "it is himself who agrees to the appointment by Fighting French sources here.

What part these leaders would play in the new North African French set-up was not certain.

Rommel Escapes British Tanks Close to Tobruk

VICHY (From Vichy Broadcasts), Nov. 16. — (AP) — Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel barely escaped capture near Tobruk last Friday, the Berlin correspondent of the Swedish telegraphic bureau said last night in a broadcast by the Vichy radio.

The correspondent quoted German military authorities as saying Rommel had been directing his rear guard defence personally and had gone back to look over the situation when several British tanks appeared suddenly.

The tanks were near, the correspondent said, and it was only by fleeing with the greatest speed that he managed to escape.

The German Freedom radio, illegal station operating in Germany, reported Saturday night that Rommel had left Libya and gone to Munich. This, however, was not confirmed from any other source.)

Billy Bishop Is Now Recovering

MONTREAL, Nov. 16—(CP)—Air Marshal W. A. Bishop is showing steady improvement in hospital here, it was announced by his physicians last night. The air hero of the First Great War underwent an operation here late last week after being flown to Montreal for treatment following a collapse as he inspected R.C.A.F. units at Hamilton, Ont.

Alcan Road Opens Vast Mineral Area

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP)—The 1,650 mile Alcan highway recently completed will open up surprising deposits of valuable minerals and coal, said Brig.-Gen. A. L. O'Connor, United States army officer commanding the northwest service division, in an interview here as he passed through en route to Whitehorse, Y.T.

"The highway provides the only means of transportation through hundreds of miles of timberland, rock country and lakes and rivers," he added.

"Adventurous folk will likely follow the road and settle in some of the districts where their forefathers followed the railroads to open up Canada and the United States."

After telling of the construction difficulties when the highway was completed in the record time of 8½ months, he said hundreds of snowplows are already on the job and hundreds of others will be taken on as soon as road opens all winter. In country where the temperature may drop to 60 and 70 degrees below zero the task is "going to be a tough one," he admitted.

Bus Regulations Confused In Man.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16—(CP)— Problems of bus transportation yesterday found Manitoba operators caught between conflicting authorities of the Dominion and Provincial governments.

Under an order from Ottawa, passenger bus journeys are to be limited to 50 miles effective Sunday, but the operators are also subject to provincial jurisdiction.

No abandonment of passenger schedules can be put into effect unless approved by the Manitoba Public Utility Board.

W. R. Cottingham, chairman of the board, said Saturday that as a matter of procedure this would be insisted upon irrespective of the Dominion order.

Meanwhile, operators said they would follow the federal order limiting travel to 50 miles and would keep their lines operating on this basis pending clarification of the situation.

Found Guilty

6 Convicted For Aiding Saboteur

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Six relatives and friends of the executed Nazi saboteur Herbert Haupt were convicted Saturday night by a Federal court jury in Illinois' first treason trial.

They face possible sentences ranging from five years imprisonment and $10,000 fines to death. Judge William J. Campbell will fix the penalties later.

The jury deliberated two hours and 50 minutes in bringing in the second treason conviction in 150 years of American history.

Found guilty of giving "aid and comfort" to the young saboteur, smuggled by submarine into the United States last June 17 on a mission to cripple war plants, were:

Hans and Erna Haupt, parents of the saboteur; Walter and Lucille Froehlich, young Haupt's aunt and uncle, and Otto and Kate Wergin, friends of the Haupt family.

Italy Depressed By Desert Defeat

MOSCOW, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Defeat of the German and Italian armies in Egypt has caused a "deep depression" in Italy and has increased anti-German feelings among the Italians, the Russians stated officially yesterday. "Secret societies have once again become active," a statement said. "Demands are being made for withdrawal of Italy from the war."

C.W.A.C. MEMBERS ENJOY LIFE IN UNIFORM

Across the Sea to Blighty Go Canadian Army Girls

Lady in battle dress is Company Sergeant-Major Olive Vicary. She was photographed as she inspected her unit before boarding ship at an eastern Canadian port.

"I see a dark man"—fortune telling is a favorite pastime with women in or out of the army to see what's "in the cards."

"Kiss me good-night, sergeant-major" —C.S.M. Olive Vicary and the private can go along with a gag.

"When do we eat?" Pte. Rose Anderson is asking the chef of the dining car. Now he knows any army travels on its stomach.

Polishing buttons is one of the most disliked chores but these girls smile —don't seem to mind it one little bit.

Home Front Honey

While George Hurrell, famed photographer of beautiful girls, does his bit as a private in the U. S. Army, lovely Leslie Brooks will carry on the home front as the "Hurrell Girl" for the duration. Her qualifications are obvious.

Bath Tub Blitz

For sheer fun, British evacuee children at the Glyndebourne Nursery School, in Sussex, find nothing better than testing a stirrup pump in this unorthodox manner.

As British Army Drove Rommel's Broken Remnants Across Desert

Australian soldiers in the van in pursuit of the foe charge through a smoke screen toward a German strong point (Left). Under heavy shellfire from Rommel's artillery, British armored cars (Centre), move up into battle along the Egyptian front. Wounded Germans are helped by victorious Aussies (Right) to a first aid station in the British lines after an enemy strong point was overrun.

Soldier-Artists Prepare For Exhibition

Artists who have enlisted in the Canadian Army will present their work in an Armed Forces Art Show which will be held in Hart House, Toronto, during this month. Many of these men are putting on canvas and drawing paper a portrayal of army life which will serve as a record of the war. The above group, from left to right, shows, top, Pte. C. M. Watson, 353 Woodbine Ave., Toronto, a former newspaperman who is using watercolors at the Canadian Army Trades School, Hamilton; one of the Queen's York Rangers' mascots keeps company with Pte. Patrick Molloy, 131A Booth Ave., Toronto, graduate of the Ontario College of Art who is shown here completing a landscape at Chippewa Barracks; James Elliott, 51 East Seventh St., Hamilton, clerk in the C.A.T.S., Hamilton, and a scholarship winner for his art work; bottom row, a portrait of a soldier is painted by Pte. Luke Kitt, 140 Dennison Ave., Toronto, who decorated the officers' mess of the Queen's York Rangers with pastels and paintings; illustrating training features is Pte. C. R. Barlow, 20 Delaware Ave., Hamilton; and Pte. Robert Norman, 4 Brighton Ave., Hamilton Beach, is an Army tailor but his hobby is drawing and painting.

Play by Play

BY PAUL DAVID PRESTON

CHAPTER XXV

PROBABLY in deference to Coach Pop Miller and his hopes for a championship victory this week, the commandant at Lincoln Field had given each football player who wanted it a three-day leave from duty. Most of them took it with a whoop and a holler. They could sleep late, loaf, go places in the city, and at Pop's direction concentrate on strategy to whip the State U. team Thursday afternoon.

Duane Hogan, however, was somewhat of an exception. He liked to fly even more than he liked football. It came second only to his home occupation of ranching. In his mind.

"Could I have a ship for a while this afternoon, sir?" he asked Major Winship on Wednesday noon. "Coach Miller has ruled out any football work. I'd sort of like to—uh—"

The major smiled. "Postman, taking a walk on his day off! Sailor, going boating in the park!"

Duane grinned. "Yes, sir."

"Take the ship of course, Hogan. Like to see that interest."

"I thought I might take up Heavy Underwood, too, sir. He's knocked out of the game, but he's well enough to fly as a passenger."

"That's the spirit, Hogan! Permit granted."

"Thank you, sir."

That's why people liked big Duane from down on the Rio Grande. It was generally known by now that he big-brothered the widow, Nancy Hale, and her little son when they were dramatically dumped into the football team's lap a while back. He had rebuilt the loft apartment for them. He had given them a friendly social rush. He had brought baby Scooter a puppy—one destined to play a part in the Aggie game last week with Duane himself.

It had all won them national prominence and it had linked Duane's name with Nancy's in a romantic way. Duane himself had never commented on all that. Big, quiet-mannered Duane.

* * *

He and Heavy Underwood had fun for two hours trying out some new gadgets on a training ship. Heavy was not as quick at mathematics or at aeronautics in general as Duane, and the fullback tutored the center.

"She's awful sensitive," Duane would say, for instance. "When you handle the controls, Heavy, don't slam 'em over like you were hazing steers into a boxcar. Treat 'em delicate, like kissing a girl."

Heavy scoffed. "How many girls you ever kissed?"

"Never mind. But I got ideas about how to do it, see."

"Ideas don't count there. Action does."

"But we ain't kissing girls now, we're flying. This takes brains."

"Uuh."

The two friends could "sass" each other endlessly and love it. Duane was a smooth aviator. In a few weeks he'd get his bars, and he wanted Heavy Underwood to be graduated with him. He knew, too, that he'd be missing the big holes Heavy usually made in enemy football lines. He tried not to think of the State game tomorrow.

They came down around 3 o'clock and together went to their quarters. Another cadet saw them.

"Hi, Hogan, somebody left a phone call for you," he called out. "Some dizzy dame."

"All dames are dizzy," Underwood proclaimed.

"This one acted special."

"Who was it?" Duane asked casually. "Mrs. Hale? I got a dinner date there. Hope she isn't breaking it. Me, I go for home cooking."

"Wasn't the widow," the cadet said. "Seriously, Hogan, she said for you to call at once. Said it was an emergency. It was Coach Miller's daughter, Blythe!"

"Hey!" That seemed to startle Duane. He dropped all easy manner at once, strode inside to the phone.

He couldn't get Blythe at home. And at Pop's office all he could hear was a wild hubbub of masculine voices. Whoever answered just said, "She ain't around."

But—emergency.

Blythe had said it was emergency. He tore through a shower bath and into fresh uniform, then quickly got a little soiled and sweaty again by running to catch a Jeep.

"Hustle me over to the athletic field, will you, kids?" he begged of the Jeep driver.

"What's in it, general?" his buddies wanted to know.

"No foolin', hurry! I'll—I'll make it up, you Nazis!"

That of course was an insult. The driver swung his wheel. The jeep circled back the other way.

"Come on, I'm not fooling!" Duane meant it now. "I take it back — that Nazi stuff. You're gentlemen and scholars, see. Drinks tonight are on me. Hurry, damn it, hurry!"

"Drinks, eh? Sure!"

"Sure! You blackmailers!"

The driver swung back again. There was some more high razzing. But they dumped Duane out unceremoniously at the gymnasium.

* * *

He went straight to Pop's office, waded through the 20 or 30 men crowding around there. Promptly he was introduced to a brusque stranger named Loumann.

"Look at this, T. J." Loumann said, holding Duane's hand and appraising him carefully. "This is him! The same one! Hogan! T. J. get an option on him for after the war. Get it quick. Maybe we can arrange one picture with him even before the—"

"Where's Blythe Miller?" Duane broke in. "Where is she?"

"Look, son, I'm Loumann of World Features. I'm signing you for—"

"Where's Bly? Pop, where's Bly?" Hogan roared a bit now.

Nobody knew. Summers, the newspaperman, looked self-conseiously around. He had been with Blythe a bit ago. But evidently she had left.

Duane left, too, nodding a promise to talk later. The men resumed their chatter as Duane shut the door. Outside, he wasn't quite sure where to look for her. Nancy Hale wasn't there in Pop's office. It must be nearly 5 o'clock—he looked at his wrist watch.

"She wasn't invited to Nancy's," he recalled, "but she might've gone up there early for something. I better go see."

He went around to the far door and turned up Nancy's stairs. Instantly, strange rumbly noises in the apartment halted him. The stair hall was almost dark, but the sounds were unmistakable. Somebody was scuffling or fighting somebody else up there!

"Good grief!" he breathed.

Next moment he heard two short, terrorized shrieks from a girl. And then—Bang!

Before the gun shot he was already leaping up the stairs. The door was locked, but he grasped the knob and braced his feet for a power pull.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

One of the oldest tournaments in the United States is the All-American Championships, formerly conducted by the American Whist League, but since the merger of all bridge organizations it is conducted annually in Chicago by the American Contract Bridge League. The increased interest in bridge was demonstrated by the fact that all previous attendance records at this tournament were broken this year.

The All-American mixed pair championship was won by Mrs. R. B. Johnstone and Martin Rothman of Chicago. The hand shown today came up during the mixed pair event.

On the opening lead a low club was played from dummy and East (Mrs. Johnstone) won with the ace. Most of the East players at this point exited with a club, hoping later to gather two diamonds and two spades, but declarer made game by setting up the diamonds and taking only one spade trick. Mrs. Johnstone, however, led back a heart, playing for a thirteener. Each time she got in with diamonds, she continued hearts, and thus established the setting trick while she still held the ace of spades.

Seattle Reported Headquarters of Nazi Sympathizers

SEATTLE, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Post-Intelligencer said yesterday it had learned that Seattle was the headquarters of an underground ring of Nazi sympathizers which is flooding the nation with propaganda for a negotiated peace with the Axis.

Government agents are investigating the ring, which has attracted comment as far away as New York," the paper said.

The Post-Intelligencer article asserted that a middle-aged woman here is suspected of writing the material, which is circulated from a post office box address advocating removal of President Roosevelt and his replacement with "a military man."

The pamphlets, the paper said, also call on prospective members of the organization of "Yankee Freemen" to denounce both the foreign and domestic policies of the government, to work for immediate annulment of the lend-lease measure and for the liquidation of Congress.

Yank Raiders of Hong Kong Saved by Chinese Guerillas

By J. REILLY O'SULLIVAN

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN CHINA, Nov. 13 —(Delayed)— (AP) — Rescued by Chinese guerillas, two crew members of the only United States bomber lost in the big daylight raid on Hong Kong Oct. 25 and a fighter pilot forced down in combat have returned to duty with the United States China Air Force.

The bomber officers are Lieut. Joseph Cunningham, bomb-aimer, and Lieut. Nicholas Marich, co-pilot. Listed as missing in action are four other crewmen of the bomber, which shot down two Japanese attackers.

Fighter Pilot Lieut. Morton Sher came back from a triumphal tour of Chinese mountain towns where he was welcomed by friendly thousands after destroying another of the 15 or more planes lost by the Japanese that day over Hong Kong.

RAKED BY BULLETS

The bomber, in the rear of the raiding formation, was raked by the bullets from a plane which Lieut. Marich identified as a Messerschmitt 109. The right engine caught fire, causing the ship to fall behind as the prey of seven Zeros which ganged up while Lieut. Sher attempted to drive them off.

"One Zero attacked from ahead and a little to the right," Marich said. "Our top gunner got him by shattering his tail, the plane simply disintegrating.

"Another Jap came after us. I saw Cunningham's tracers go into him and he went down flaming."

The left engine quit then the top gunner ran out of ammunition, the lieutenant related.

ORDERS BAIL OUT

"The pilot gave orders to bail out, but only the two gunners in the rear succeeded. They dropped into the water near the shore. We were later told by the Chinese that they were picked up by fishermen.

"Reaching a water-covered rice paddy about 15 miles from Kowloon, the pilot made a belly landing. No one was hurt.

"The Messerschmitt strafed us as we dived into drifts. The pilot, however, stood by the ship to destroy secret equipment with pistol shots. He was a target for three planes which came over strafing. After making sure the equipment was decommissioned he made for a ditch, but a bullet caught his foot, causing a pretty bad wound. The Japs left when they ran out of ammunition.

"We assisted the pilot to a near-by village, where we obtained Chinese clothes and dressed the wound. The village apparently either was Japanese-controlled or the inhabitants feared retaliation for aiding us.

"An English-speaking woman we took to be Japanese told us to await the arrival of Japanese officials and be interned. As soon as she left we picked up the pilot and sneaked away.

HUNTED IN BUSHES

"That night men came beating the bushes for us. We heard rifle shots. The pilot and the navigator crawled away from us. In the darkness we were unable to locate them and never saw them again.

"We met a Chinese guerilla way up in the hills. He recognized our insignia and took us to a village where the Chinese received us and made us comfortable.

"They arranged the start of our trip back to our base. It took 16 days, walking, by sedan chair, houseboat and bicycle. The Chinese saved us and were wonderful.

Lieut. Sher was forced down by engine trouble in a small field well within Chinese lines while chased by two Japanese fighters. His only injury was a head bump, suffered when his plane nosed over.

ASKED TO SING

Sher said he was the only foreigner ever to visit the Soje villages. He was feted. Officials called on him to speak at gatherings of 15,000 and more. He also was asked to sing.

He gave them "the Star Spangled Banner" and University of Alabama songs and for stories he once related what he remembered of Little Red Riding Hood.

Police said Randall told them Miss Bennett had been despondent since she recently lost custody of her five children by her previous husband, singer Morton Downey.

Aussies, Yanks Move To Attack In New Guinea

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Nov. 16— (CP) — Australian and American ground troops, converging on the strong Japanese invasion base at Buna, New Guinea, have joined forces and now are moving in to attack, an Allied communique said today.

The steady advance in New Guinea was supported by continuous air attacks, the communique said, while other aircraft continued to support United States forces in the Solomons area by bombing shipping and air bases to the north of Guadalcanal.

CLOSING ON BUNA

The Allied forces have been closing on Buna, only Japanese base in southeastern New Guinea, ever since American airborne troops were landed in the jungles south of there late in October.

The Australians have pushed steadily down the northern slope of the Owen Stanley mountains to approach Buna from the west, while the Americans moved up from the South.

"The Australian and American columns are in contact with each other and are jointly moving in to attack," the communique said.

"The enemy, under command of Lt.-Gen. Tomatore Horii, now faces the Allies to the west and south, with the jungle and the sea at his back. Our air force is attacking without respite."

Japan Shake-Up Rallies Empire For New Trials

James D. White, back in the United States after a decade in the Orient, views the Japanese bureaucratic shakeup in the light of his observations as a foreign correspondent. — EDITOR.

By JAMES D. WHITE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP) —One of the greatest bureaucratic upheavals in history has taken place in Japan. Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo has made an attempt to rally the empire for the trials ahead by creating a super-ministry of East Asiatic affairs.

To do it he wiped out the overseas ministry, the powerful Manchurian and China affairs boards, the East Asiatic and South Seas bureaux of the foreign ministry, and 31 other bureaux and 12 government departments.

THOUSANDS AFFECTED

The shakeup took two cabinet decree and 78 imperial ordinances to accomplish, and will make some 170,000 high and medium government officials think twice before they turn in their next expense accounts. Probably 10 times this number of petty clerks and secretaries will find their jobs affected.

A great deal of gravy that has been going into the private pockets of colonial officials is involved, and Tojo wants it for the war.

Tojo can get it if anyone can. He was for some time concurrently chief of staff of the Kuantung army and head of the Japanese gendarmerie (secret police) in Manchuria, just at a time when Manchuria was serving as a vast training ground for Japanese administrators.

Most of the economic and other specialists whom Japan pours into the occupied areas in East Asia won their spurs in Manchukuo.

CHECKS ON ALL

As they dipped acquisitive fingers into the colonial pie, Tojo was sitting quietly in Hsinking, the capital, filing dossier after dossier on each man. He knows all about them—their political agaries, their friendships, ambitions, and weaknesses. They know he knows.

"All planes returned safely."

No Negotiations Started On P.G.E.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Revived proposals for completion of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway in British Columbia to connect Prince George and Vancouver, referred to by Representative Warren Magnusson in Seattle Saturday, have not reached the negotiation stage, it was learned here today.

Canadian officials responsible for joint planning with the United States government questioned concerning a Seattle dispatch quoting Mr. Magnusson, would not confirm his report that negotiations had opened.

For many years there have been discussions looking toward the possibility of the Canadian government taking over this road, which starts at a point 30 miles north of Vancouver and stops about 70 miles short of Prince George.

Costly engineering works and bridges would be necessary to close the gap at the Vancouver end, it is understood.

229 Britons Are Killed In October By Nazi Bombers
